prevailed in American society Most women saw putting the barn before the house investing capital and labor in productive operations rather than spending money on consumer goods or devoting time to mere housework as a necessary and rational course for families who were determined to make a living on the land and if possible to pass on viable farms to the next generation Some women preferred working outdoors to what seemed to them the thankless tasks of urban housewives while others worked off the farm to support the family Husbands and wives as well as parents and children debated what was best and negotiated over how to allocate their limited labor and capital and plan for an uncertain future Osterud tells the story of an agricultural community in transition amid an industrializing age with care and skill
