Winship UPI

Auchincloss is a worldly philosopher who writes with confident authority of the law office and the board room but he is also a social historian and an amused observer of the prosperous at play The venue may be a cruise ship or a minor stately home in Virginia an urban chateau on Fifth Avenue or a great bibliophile's private library overlooking the East River His characters tend to be tribal creatures who pay lip service to social taboos but who live by the laws of self interest Frances Taliaferro New York Times

The Book Class Louis Auchincloss, 1984-08-01 The author of Exit Lady Masham explores the lives of twelve members of a high society ladies book club in New York over the course of sixty years If I have a bias it is in my suspicion that women are intellectually and intuitively superior to men writes Christopher Gates the narrator of this book But he adds I certainly never thought they were nicer And I very much doubt that anyone could think so who was raised as I was in a society in which the female had so many more privileges than the male Thus he describes the twelve women who as debutantes instituted his mother's book class in 1908 and met every month for over sixty years to discuss a selected title old or new During their lifetimes these women did not have any real political or economic clout comparable to that of the men of their day Only Adeline Bloodgood had ever held a regular job and only Polly Travers as a State Assemblywoman ever played a formal role in politics For Georgia Bristed the hostess had largely consumed the woman and Leila Lee was a beauty in a day when simply being beautiful was considered an adequate occupation Although most of them were surrounded by a staff of servants and had no discernible responsibilities these women still lived with serious intent backed by a considerable and undeniable power that in no way derived from the snares and lures of womanly wiles Within the protected discipline of their surroundings their lives were filled with drama and challenge moments of passion of betrayal and loyalty of sweet revenge and joyless conquest of irony and illumination

Honorable Men Louis Auchincloss, 1985-09-25 From a New York Times bestselling author A novel about a member of the Greatest Generation wrestling with moral choices over the next generation's war in Vietnam Chip Benedict appeared to have the best of everything wealth education good looks charm and intelligence Shortly before entering law school he married Alida a pale beauty who also had the cunning and talent to become the debutante of the year escaping the progressively threadbare world of tarnished elegance and unpaid bills to which she was born Alida's life continued in a storybook fashion with her marriage to Chip a seemingly perfect and certainly honorable man Called to serve in World War II he returned a hero decorated for bravery at the Normandy landing Following in his father's footsteps he became chairman of the board of the prestigious Benedict Glass Company founded by his grandfather And yet with all of his gifts Chip is haunted by dark guilt that drives him to excel conform and embrace a righteousness that he fails to perceive as hypocrisy In business he becomes the perfect corporate executive lauded in Fortune and Forbes He serves his community supports the arts and patriotically honors his government But when it comes to choosing sides on the issue of Vietnam he will make a decision that casts aside the deepest ties and loyalties of his life Through a series of flashbacks the narrators come to realize how outside events have influenced their lives Auchincloss uses their story to show us the frailties of human nature when confronted with politics and morality This psychological novel is

Twenty three biographical essays on writers admired by the National Medal of Arts winning author of The Education of Oscar Fairfax For Louis Auchincloss life and letters are not two things but one It therefore comes as no surprise that when he writes about writers their lives are considered as closely as their works He takes what today is a refreshingly unpopular position that the artist and his art cannot be teased apart that biography of criticism and criticism biography For Mr Auchincloss it all boils down to that maxim of Buffon s the style s the man the man behind the book The twenty three writers discussed here are a mixed lot English American and French novelists poets and playwrights Jacobean Victorians and moderns yet each has meant a great deal to Mr Auchincloss as a reader and a writer Some of them are classics and familiar Auchincloss subjects Sarah Orne Jewett Henry James Ivy Compton Burnett Others among them Prosper Merimee Harold Frederic and Amy Lowell were famous once but are now obscure In their cases it is Mr Auchincloss s self described task to explore the reasons for their fall from grace reasons that prove to be unfailingly personal as well as artistic But as Mr Auchincloss would rather praise and share than damn and dismiss it is also his task to seek the portions of their work that may still merit attention Alfred Kazin once noted that Mr Auchincloss s essays are marked by perfect literary grace and wit These qualities have never been so evident as in this volume an informal study of some of the author s favorite books and the fascinating artists behind them
