Technologies of Speculation Sun-ha Hong,2020-07-28 An inquiry into what we can know in an age of surveillance and algorithms Knitting together contemporary technologies of datafication to reveal a broader underlying shift in what counts as knowledge Technologies of Speculation reframes today s major moral and political controversies around algorithms and artificial intelligence How many times we toss and turn in our sleep our voluminous social media activity and location data our average resting heart rate and body temperature new technologies of state and self surveillance promise to re enlighten the black boxes of our bodies and minds But Sun ha Hong suggests that the burden to know and to digest this information at alarming rates is stripping away the liberal subject that knows for themselves and risks undermining the pursuit of a rational public What we choose to track and what kind of data is extracted from us shapes a society in which my own experience and sensation is increasingly overruled by data driven systems From the rapidly growing Quantified Self community to large scale dragnet data collection in the name of counter terrorism and drone warfare Hong argues that data s promise of objective truth results in new cultures of speculation In his analysis of the Snowden affair Hong demonstrates an entirely new way of thinking through what we could know and the political and philosophical stakes of the belief that data equates to knowledge When we simply cannot process all the data at our fingertips he argues we look past the inconvenient and the complicated to favor the comprehensible In the process racial stereotypes and other longstanding prejudices re enter our newest technologies by the back door Hong reveals the moral and philosophical equations embedded into the algorithmic eye that now follows us all

Authorship's Wake Philip Sayers, 2020-12-10 Authorship s Wake examines the aftermath of the 1960s critique of the author epitomized by Roland Barthes s essay The Death of the Author This critique has given rise to a body of writing that confounds generic distinctions separating the literary and the theoretical Its archive consists of texts by writers who either directly participated in this critique as Barthes did or whose intellectual formation took place in its immediate aftermath These writers include some who are known primarily as theorists Judith Butler others known primarily as novelists Zadie Smith David Foster Wallace and yet others whose texts are difficult to categorize the autofiction of Chris Kraus Sheila Heti and Ben Lerner the autotheory of Maggie Nelson These writers share not only a central motivating question how to move beyond the critique of the author subject but also a way of answering it by writing texts that merge theoretical concerns with literary discourse Authorship s Wake traces the responses their work offers in relation to four themes communication intention agency and labor Parables for the Virtual Brian Massumi, 2021-08-30 Since its publication twenty years ago Brian Massumi's pioneering Parables for the Virtual has become an essential text for interdisciplinary scholars across the humanities Massumi views the body and media such as television film and the internet as cultural formations that operate on multiple registers of sensation Renewing and assessing William James's radical empiricism and Henri Bergson's philosophy of perception through the filter of the postwar French philosophy of Deleuze Guattari and Foucault Massumi links a cultural logic of variation to questions of movement affect and sensation Replacing the traditional opposition of literal and figural with distinctions between stasis and motion and between actual and virtual Massumi tackles related theoretical issues by applying them to cultural mediums as diverse as architecture body art the digital art of Stelarc and Ronald Reagan's acting career The result is an intriguing combination of cultural theory science and philosophy that asserts itself in a crystalline and multifaceted argument This twentieth anniversary edition includes a new preface in which Massumi situates the book in relation to developments since its publication and outlines the evolution of its main concepts It also includes two short texts Keywords for Affect and Missed Conceptions about Affect in which Massumi explicates his approach to affect in ways that emphasize the book's political and philosophical stakes Neuropolitics William E. Connolly, 2002-07-24 Why would a political theorist venture into the nexus between neuroscience and film According to William Connolly whose new book is itself an eloquent answer the combination exposes the ubiquitous role that technique plays in thinking ethics and politics By taking up recent research in neuroscience to explore the way brain activity is influenced by cultural conditions and stimuli such as film technique Connolly is able to fashion a new perspective on our attempts to negotiate and thrive within a deeply pluralized society whose culture and economy continue to quicken In Neuropolitics Connolly draws upon recent brain body research to explore the creative potential of thinking the layered character of culture the cultivation of ethical sensibilities and the critical role of technique in all three He then shows how a series of films including Vertigo Five Easy Pieces and Citizen Kane enhances our appreciation of technique and contests the linear image of time now prevalent in cultural theory Connolly deftly brings these themes together to support an ethos of deep pluralism within the democratic state and a politics of citizen activism across states His book is an original and rigorous study that attends to the creative possibilities of thinking in identity culture and ethics Interdisciplinary Journal for Germanic Linguistics and Semiotic Analysis ,2005 The Cumulative Book Index ,1999 Ripping England! Roger Rawlings, 2017-12-04 Examines an all too often neglected period of postwar British cinema and popular culture Ripping England investigates a fertile moment for British satire the period between 1947 and 1953 which produced the films Passport to Pimlico Kind Hearts and Coronets and The Lavender Hill Mob as well as the seminal radio program The Goon Show Against the postwar background of fading empire universal rationing and the implementation of a welfare state these satires laid the foundation for a new British cultural identity later fleshed out by the Angry Young Men the Movement poets the Social Realists and those involved in the satire boom of the 1960s which lives on even to this day The peculiarity of these satires and the British identity they shaped is better understood when seen in relief against postwar cinematic cultures of Italy France and the United States Roger Rawlings places postwar British film in the context of contemporaneous European national film movements and contrasts it with Hollywood s comedies and satires of the same period British satires of the late forties and early fifties held up a mirror to a nation that was in the throes of change moving from a colonial empire to an inward turning island culture Ripping England looks at the all too often neglected miracle of postwar British cinema and popular culture
