monumental study of two generations of women who married either before or after the Patriote rebellions of 1837 38 explores the meaning of the transition from wife to widowhood in early nineteenth century Montreal Bettina Bradbury weaves together the individual biographies of twenty women against the backdrop of collective genealogies of over 500 to offer new insights into the law politics demography religion and domestic life of the time She shows how women from all walks of life interacted with and shaped Montreal's culture customs and institutions even as they laboured under the shifting conditions of patriarchy Wife to Widow provides a rare window into the significance of marriage and widowhood Jailed for Possession Catherine Carstairs, 2006-12-15 As rates of illegal drug use increase the debates over drug policy heat up

While some believe penalties should be harsher others advocate complete decriminalisation Certainly debate over the war on drugs is not new In the early 1920s as the drive for Chinese Exclusion gathered steam Canadians blamed the Chinese for the growing use of opium and other drugs and parliamentarians passed extremely harsh drug laws to counter this use These laws remained in place until the 1960s In Jailed for Possession Catherine Carstairs examines the impact of these drug laws on users health work lives and relationships In the middle of the century drug users regularly went to jail for up to two years for possession of even the smallest amount of opium morphine heroin or cocaine often spending more time incarcerated than on the street As enforcement increased and drugs became harder to obtain drug use became an increasingly central preoccupation making it almost impossible for users to hold down steady jobs support families or maintain solid relationships Jailed for Possession is the first social history of drug use in Canada and provides a careful examination of drug users and their regulators including doctors social workers and police officers

Foisted Upon the Government? Edgar-André Montigny, 1997 While government officials in the 1890s claimed that forcing families to take responsibility for caring for the aged was in the interest of the elderly Edgar Andr Montigny reveals that government policy had more to do with saving money than a desire to serve the aged He provides a harsh critique of Ontario government policies toward the elderly and their families at the end of the nineteenth century and highlights similarities between what happened in the 1890s and current policy reforms in the area of long term care Montigny argues that government played a central role in determining how society viewed the elderly and family obligations to them Using census data municipal records and institutional case files he demonstrates that the government created and promoted an image of the aged population that bore little resemblance to reality and manipulated the concept of family obligations to justify policies to reduce social welfare costs The effect of these policies passed in the name of helping the elderly and their families was almost universally negative By dispelling the myths that continue to influence public policy concerning the aged Montigny provides a useful warning of the negative consequences of policies that are enacted to cut costs rather than to serve the population they are supposed to help
