North American Social Report Economics Religion And Morality:

North American Social Report: Economics, religion, and morality Alex C. Michalos, 1980      North American Social Report Alex C. Michalos, 2013-06-29 For readers who intend to read this volume without reading the first some introductory remarks are in order about the scope of the work and the strategy used in all five volumes to measure the quality of life In the first chapter of Volume I I reviewed the relevant recent literature on social indicators and social reporting and explained all the general difficulties involved in such work It would be redundant to repeat that discussion here but there are some fundamental points that are worth mentioning Readers who find this account too brief should consult the longer discussion The basic question that will be answered in this work is this Is there a difference in the quality of life in Canada and the United States of America and if so in which country is it better Alternatively one could put the question thus If one individual were randomly selected out of Canada and another out of the United States would there be important qualitative differences and if so which one would probably be better off To simplify matters I often use the terms Canadian and American as abbreviations for a randomly selected resident of Canada or the United States respectively      North American Social Report: Economics, religion, and morality Alex C. Michalos, 1980      North American Social Report: Science, education, and recreation Alex C. Michalos, 1980      How Good Policies and Business Ethics Enhance Good Quality of Life Alex C. Michalos, 2017-06-14 This volume provides bridges from the social sciences to business ethics and from the latter to the quality of life by connecting the research themes of quality of life social sciences including public policy making and business ethics or corporate responsibility It builds on the premise that public policy making is essentially a species of good decision making as explained in the first volume It shows that because most developed countries function as market economies whose governments depend on taxation to pay for their services and because a large proportion of government revenue comes from well regulated responsible corporations the quality of people's lives is highly dependent upon good public policies taxation and business ethics The volume presents and examines ethical moral problems arising in market economies since the first century BCE including the first appearance of the business case for business ethics fourteen arguments concerning the neglect of business ethics business ethics issues for the 1990s and beyond the loyal agent's argument advertising the importance of trust public opinion polling public program evaluation and a critique of the relatively new monster of super capitalism In addition it deals with connections among the concepts of efficiency morality and rationality related to decision making in general and public policy making in particular Finally it explains relationships between outcomes measurement and performance indicators in general and performance based management in public administration the taxation of net wealth and financial transactions      North American Social Report Alex C. Michalos, 2012-12-06 For readers who intend to read this volume without reading the first some introductory remarks are in order about the scope of the work and the strategy used in all five volumes to measure the quality of life In the first chapter of Volume I I reviewed the relevant recent literature on social indicators and social reporting and explained all the general difficulties involved in such work. It would be redundant to repeat that discussion here but there are some fundamental points that are worth mentioning. Readers who find this account too brief should consult the longer discussion. The basic question that will be answered in this work is: Is there a difference in the quality of life in Canada and the United States of America and if so in which country is it better? Alternatively one could put the question thus: If one individual were randomly selected out of Canada and another out of the United States, would there be important qualitative differences and if so which one would probably be better off? To simplify matters I often use the terms Canadian and American as abbreviations for a randomly selected resident of Canada or the United States respectively.

The marketing approach is highly pragmatic because it allows social and behavioral scientists from any discipline to apply marketing concepts to plan social change and assess the impact of intervention strategies on the QOL of targeted populations      Connecting the Quality of Life Theory to Health, Well-being and Education Alex C. Michalos, 2017-06-14 This volume connects aspects of personal health overall well being and education to quality of life It includes discussions of Galen's and Harvey's views of the movement of blood in human bodies and differences in the research traditions of social indicators research and health related quality of life research It examines determinants of health and quality of life in a variety of populations including the residents of the Bella Coola Valley of British Columbia aboriginal residential school survivors in Canada and diabetics versus non diabetics It describes relations between health survey and patients medical chart reviews the health and quality of life of older people and the difference between good health and a good life Other topics explored are student quality of life comparisons of the quality of life of students aboriginal and unemployed people the impact of education on happiness and well being and liberal education In addition the volume presents Einstein's views of ethics and science and unacknowledged authorship in scholarly publications The final chapter gives a historical review of quality of life research in Canada over the past fifty years      A Pragmatic Approach to Business Ethics

Michalos, 2013-04-17 Since initiating the journal Social Indicators Research in 1974 Alex C Michalos has been a pioneer in social indicators and quality of life research This collection of nineteen articles provides an overview of nearly 30 years of work including papers drawn from diverse sources and papers never published before Topics range over quality of life investigations connected to the problems of combining social economic and environmental indicators measuring the status of women in Canada housing and migration health and human well being older peoples well being leisure activities and health impact of public services police services criminal victimization feminism and ethnic relations on the quality of life The final paper on multiple discrepancies theory MDT is the author's unique contribution to an empirically testable new foundation for theories of utility satisfaction and happiness

The Pope of Happiness Alex C. Michalos, 2021-04-29 This book honors the work of Ruut Veenhoven who has been a pioneer and leader in the field of happiness studies for the past 50 years It brings together experts in the field discussing Veenhoven's work as well as taking up themes from his workshops over the years to analyze how and where the field has expanded following his research Veenhoven's contributions include developing theories and measuring instruments creating the world's first and largest database of happiness research founding the world's first and most frequently cited Journal of Happiness Studies and student development in and popularization of the field of happiness studies He has extensive publications through the International Sociological Association and the International Society for Quality of Life Studies and the research field of happiness studies would not have become as broad today without his enormous contributions Friends and former students of Veenhoven provide both academic and anecdotal discussions in this festschrift which is important for anyone interested in the development of happiness research North American Social Report: Environment, transportation, and housing Alex C. Michalos,1980 The Myth of the North American City Michael Goldberg,John Mercer,2011-11-01 The continuing tendency to continentalize Canadian issues has been particularly marked in the area of urban studies where United States based research findings methodologies and attitudes have held sway In this book Goldberg and Mercer demonstrate that the label North American City as widely used is inappropriate and misleading in discussion of the distinctive Canadian urban environment Examining such elements of the cultural context as mass values social and demographic structures the economy and political institutions they reveal salient differences between Canada and the United States One of the most important of the many contextual differences is the strong collective sense in Canada which accepts more public intervention in social and economic matters in contrast to the American commitment to individualism Canadians consequently expect a livable central city which is compact and well served by public transit and which has a fiscally sound local government To demonstrate these issues the discussion includes a detailed cross national empirical analysis of over 300 North American metropolitan areas along some three dozen dimensions including density transportation household change and structure income and fiscal disparities and economic structure Since much urban planning in Canada is based upon the continentalist assumption this volume should generate a reassessment of policy and encourage the development of a research base to suit the distinctiveness of the Canadian experience With growing pressures to take a North American view of Canadian policies it is vitally important that the differences delineated in this book are understood not just for their urban policy implications but for broader purposes as well Development of Quality of Life Theory and Its Instruments Alex C. Michalos,2017-06-14 The focus of this volume is on the further development of the Quality of Life Theory and the means to measure the concept The volume summarizes Michalos fundamental assumptions about the nature of quality of life or human well being and explains in detail the two variable theory of the quality of life It gives an update of the journal Social Indicators Research after forty years an explanation of the role of community indicators in connecting communities and a critical review of the much publicized Stiglitz Sen and Fitoussi report It deals with the multiple discrepancies theory MDT the empirical theory designed to provide the foundation of the pragmatic theory of value Other concepts discussed in this volume are the stability sensitivity and other different features of measures of domain and life satisfaction and happiness measures of arts related activities and beliefs measures of knowledge attitudes and behaviour concerning sustainable development and the role of quality of life in sustainable development research The volume concludes with discussions on connections between social indicators and communities aspects of community quality of life in Prince George British Columbia and Jasper Alberta and British Columbians expectations and attitudes going into the third millennium North American Social Report Alex C. Michalos,1981-05-31 For readers who intend to read this volume without reading the first some introductory remarks are in order about the scope of the work and the strategy used in all five volumes to measure the quality of life In the first chapter of Volume I I reviewed the relevant recent literature on social indicators and social reporting and explained all the general difficulties involved in such work It would be redundant to repeat that discussion here but there are some fundamental points that are worth mentioning Readers who find this account too brief should consult the longer discussion The basic question that will be answered in this work is this Is there a difference in the quality of life in Canada and the United States of America and if so in which country is it better Alternatively one could put the question thus If one individual were randomly selected out of Canada and another out of the United States would there be important qualitative differences and if so which one would probably be better off To simplify matters I often use the terms Canadian and American as abbreviations for a randomly selected resident of Canada or the United States respectively Philosophical Foundations of Quality of Life Alex C. Michalos,2017-06-14 This first volume has as its main focus the philosophical foundations of Michalos work and describes it in the broad context of the study of logic the philosophy of social sciences and a general theory of value After distinguishing things that have value from the value that things might have it describes the foundations of a pragmatic theory of value This theory plays a key role in the author's research on the quality of life and connects his empirical research to the philosophical tradition of the American pragmatists William James Ralph Barton Perry John Dewey and Clarence Irving Lewis The volume addresses various aspects and issues concerning decision making including decision procedures used in committees used for assessing the acceptability of scientific theories and new technologies procedures for a science court ethical issues involved in the formation of beliefs some limitations of classical economists alleged postulates of rational preference and the importance of analytic guides to decision making Finally it describes the organization of the Social Sciences Federation of Canada and a formal accounting system for scientific research Citation Classics from Social Indicators Research Alex C.
