Northern Eden ,1999      Evaluating Eden Dilys Roe,2000      Presenting and Representing Environments Graham Humphrys,Michael Williams,2006-01-27 The presentation and representation of the environment occurs throughout academia and across all news media The strict protocols of science often clash with environmental information available from sources that dwell on subjective aesthetic emotional and personal sensitivities This book challenge the reader as student teacher researcher or policy maker to reflect critically on the ways that environments are studied interpreted presented and represented in education and public policy      Management of Agricultural, Forestry, Fisheries and Rural Enterprise - Volume I Robert J. Hudson,2009-12-10 Management of Agricultural Forestry and Fisheries Enterprises theme is a component of Encyclopedia of Food and Agricultural Sciences Engineering and Technology Resources in the global Encyclopedia of Life Support Systems EOLSS which is an integrated compendium of twenty one Encyclopedias Growing populations and expectations have placed extreme pressure on agricultural forestry and fisheries resources Sustainability of resources and resource industries will be achieved only with commitment ingenuity and cooperation at unprecedented scale The theme on Management of Agricultural Forestry and Fisheries Enterprises begins with an assessment of the organization of agricultural forestry fisheries and rural enterprises introducing community based management traditional small farms cooperatives and marketing boards collective and state enterprises and integrated global corporate systems This is followed by thorough assessments of management systems for plants livestock forests and fisheries Plant management systems are based on genetic resources water management nutrient management and agronomic systems Livestock production systems are considered from the standpoints of genetic resources range and pasture based systems landless systems and options for diversification Trends in the forest industry are revealed in terms of demand for a variety of products from forests evolving policy regimens and silvicultural developments The final topic addresses the complex issues surrounding sustainability of the world s fisheries This theme assess the evolving state of the main resource industries interpreting trends and identifying challenges and opportunities Contributors have attempted to project these developments and raise questions about their impact and role in a changing world Clearly they are part of an unfolding story of adaptation of the resource industries in an increasingly global society These two volumes are aimed at the following five major target audiences University and College Students Educators Professional Practitioners Research Personnel and Policy Analysts Managers and Decision Makers NGOs and GOs      Making a Living Nicole Gombay,2010-12-13 Until recently most residents of Puvirnituq an Inuit settlement in Northern Quebec made their living off the land Successful hunting fishing trapping and gathering so vital to people s survival were underpinned by the expectation that food should be shared As the Inuit moved into both forced and voluntary they have had to incorporate the workings of a monetized economy into their own notions of how to operate as a society Quoting local residents and drawing upon academic literature the author documents the experiences of an Inuit community as they wrestle with how to accommodate their belief in a sharing economy with the demands of market forces Breaking Ice Arctic Institute of North America, 2005 From the pressures of development technological advances globalization and climate change to social and cultural life this book attempts to define the nature of competing demands and assess their impact on the environment These essays provide a detailed examination of ocean and coastal management in the Canadian north exploring a wide range of issues critical to environmental stewardship and breaking the ice to connect academics government managers policy makers aboriginal groups and industry Book Jacket Equity and the Environment Robert C. Wilkinson, William R. Freudenburg, 2007-12-12 Soon after the first Earth Day in 1970 the academic world saw a virtual explosion of new interdisciplinary environmental programs many of which took explicit note for the first time of the fact that environmental problems are inherently social problems as well Even in the new programs however issues of equity and the environment were usually relegated to isolated classes on environmental ethics Today they still are Reindeer Management in Northernmost Europe Bruce C. Forbes, Manfred Bölter, Ludger Müller-Wille, Janne Hukkinen, Felix Müller, Nicolas Gunsley, Yulian Konstantinov, 2006-03-09 The findings presented in this volume represent a concerted effort to develop a more inclusive form of reindeer management for northernmost Europe Our guiding principle has been to foster a new paradigm of participatory research We wish to move beyond the historical reliance on western approaches to basic and applied science These have been concerned primarily with interactions between herded animals and the various components of their biophysical environment e g plants insects predators climate and others In our view sociocultural and economic drivers along with herders experience based knowledge gain equal currency in the effort to understand how management may mitigate against the negative aspects of the challenges modern herding faces while also exploring concepts of sustainability from different perspectives see also Jernsletten and Klokov 2002 Kankaanp et al 2002 Ulvevadet and Klokov 2004 This broadening of the pool of disciplines and local national and international stakeholders in policy relevant research invariably complicates virtually all aspects of the research process Multidisciplinary or in our sense transdisciplinary approaches also require extraordinary effort from all participants if they are to succeed As such those approaches should not be undertaken lightly nor without personnel who possess appropriate experience in cooperating with those of different disciplines and preferably also with relevant practitioners and public social and administrative institutions In such settings the potential for misunderstandings is quite high Justice in the Forest Marcus Colchester, 2006-01-01 Bibliography of Agriculture with Subject Index, 1993-11 Sustaining Agriculture William Vorley, 2002 Indigenous Empowerment through Co-management Graham White, 2020-02-01 Co management boards established under comprehensive land claims agreements with Indigenous peoples have become key players in land use planning wildlife management and environmental regulation across Canada's North This book provides a detailed account of the operation and effectiveness of these new forms of federalism in order to address a central question Have co management boards been successful in ensuring substantial Indigenous involvement in policies affecting the land and wildlife in their traditional territories Graham White tackles this question drawing on decades of research and writing about the politics of Northern Canada He begins with an overview of the boards examining their legal foundations structure and membership decision making processes and independence from government He then presents case studies of several important boards While White identifies constraints on the role Northern Indigenous peoples play in board processes he finds that overall they exercise extensive decision making influence These findings are provocative and offer valuable insights into our understanding of the importance of land claims boards and the role they play in the evolution of treaty federalism in Canada
