Noted Negro Women: Their Triumphs and Activities Monroe Alphas Majors (1864), 1893 North Carolina Women Michele Gillespie, Sally G. McMillen, 2014 This first of two volumes on North Carolina women chronicles the influence and accomplishments of individual women from the pre Revolutionary period through the early 20th century They represent a range of social and economic backgrounds political stances areas of influence and geographical regions within the state Even though North Carolina remained mostly rural until well into the twentieth century and the lives of most women centered on farm family and church Gillespie and McMillen note that the state's people exhibited a progressive streak that positively influenced women Public funds were set aside to advance statewide education private efforts after the Civil War led to the founding of numerous black schools and colleges and in 1891 the General Assembly chartered the State Normal and Industrial School later UNC-G as one of the first publicly funded colleges for white women By the late 19th century as several essays in this volume reveal education played a pivotal role in the lives of many white and black women It inspired their activism and involvement in a world beyond their traditional domestic sphere Black Women in Nineteenth-Century American Life Bert James Loewenberg, Ruth Bogin, 2010-11-01 Visible Women Nancy A. Hewitt, Suzanne Lebsock, 1993 In this collection fifteen leading historians of women and American history explore women's political action from 1830 to the present Together their contributions illustrate the tremendous scope and racial ethnic and class diversity of women's public activism while also clarifying various conceptual issues Essays include an analysis of ideologies and strategies suffrage militance in 1870s ideas for a feminist approach to public life labor feminism in the urban South women's activism in Tampa Florida black women and economic nationalism black women's clubs the YMCA's place in the community the role of Southern churchwomen in racial reform and transformation and other topics Establishes important links between citizenship race and gender following the Reconstruction amendments and the Dawes Act of 1887 Sharon Hartmann Strom American Historical Review

Mary McLeod Bethune and the National Council of Negro Women Elaine M. Smith, 2003 All Bound Up Together Martha S. Jones, 2009-11-30 The place of women's rights in African American public culture has been an enduring question one that has long engaged activists commentators and scholars All Bound Up Together explores the roles black women played in their communities social movements and the consequences of elevating women into positions of visibility and leadership Martha Jones reveals how through the nineteenth century the woman question was at the core of movements against slavery and for civil rights Unlike white women activists who often created their own institutions separate from men black women Jones explains often organized within already existing institutions churches political organizations mutual aid societies and schools Covering three generations of black women activists Jones demonstrates that their approach was not unanimous or monolithic but changed over time and took a variety of forms from a woman's right to control her body to her right to vote Through a far ranging look at politics church and social life Jones demonstrates how women have helped shape the course of black public culture

African American Authors, 1745-1945 Emmanuel S. Nelson, 2000-01-30 There has been a dramatic resurgence of interest in early African American writing Since the accidental rediscovery and republication of Harriet Wilson's Our Nig in 1983 the works of dozens of 19th and early 20th century black writers have been recovered and reprinted There is now a significant revival of interest in the Harlem Renaissance of the 1920s and in the last decade alone several major assessments of 18th and 19th century African American literature have been published Early African American literature builds on a strong oral tradition of songs folktales and sermons Slave narratives began to appear during the late 18th and early 19th century and later writers began to engage a variety of themes in diverse genres A central objective of this reference book is to provide a wide ranging introduction to the first 200 years of African American literature Included are alphabetically arranged entries for 78 black writers active between 1745 and 1945 Among these writers are essayists novelists short story writers poets playwrights and autobiographers Each entry is written by an expert contributor and provides a biography a discussion of major works and themes an overview of the author's critical reception and primary and secondary bibliographies The volume concludes with a selected general bibliography

Ladies' Pages Noliwe M. Rooks, 2004-06-09 Beginning in the late nineteenth century mainstream magazines established ideal images of white female culture while comparable African American periodicals were cast among the shadows Noliwe M Rooks's Ladies Pages sheds light on the most influential African American women's magazines Ringwood's Afro American Journal of Fashion Half Century Magazine for the Colored Homemaker Tan Confessions Essence and O the Oprah Magazine and their little known success in shaping the lives of black women Ladies Pages demonstrates how these rare and thought provoking publications contributed to the development of African American culture and the ways in which they in turn reflect important historical changes in black communities What African American women wore bought consumed read cooked and did at home with their families were all fair game and each of the magazines offered copious amounts of advice about what such choices could and did mean At the same time these periodicals helped African American women to find work and to develop a strong communications network Rooks reveals in detail how these publications contributed to the concepts of black sexual identity rape migration urbanization fashion domesticity consumerism and education Her book is essential reading for everyone interested in the history and culture of African Americans Under Sentence of Death W. Fitzhugh Brundage, 2017-11-01

From the assembled work of fifteen leading scholars emerges a complex and provocative portrait of lynching in the American South With subjects ranging in time from the late antebellum period to the early twentieth century and in place from the border states to the Deep South this collection of essays provides a rich comparative context in which to study the troubling history of lynching Covering a broad spectrum of methodologies these essays further expand the study of lynching by exploring such topics as same race lynchings black resistance to white violence and the political motivations for lynching In addressing both the history and the legacy of lynching the book raises important questions about Southern history race relations and the nature of American violence Though focused on events in the South these essays speak to patterns of violence injustice and racism that have plagued the entire nation The contributors are Bruce E Baker E M Beck W Fitzhugh Brundage Joan E Cashin Paula Clark Thomas G Dyer Terence Finnegan Larry J Griffin Nancy MacLean William S McFeely Joanne C Sandberg Patricia A Schechter Roberta Senechal de la Roche Stewart E Tolnay and George C Wright Equal Labor Representation on Government Codes and Boards United States.
