Mission Cary Cordova combines urban political and art history to examine how the Mission District a longtime bohemian enclave in San Francisco has served as an important place for an influential and largely ignored Latino arts movement from the 1960s to the present Well before the anointment of the Mission School by art world arbiters at the dawn of the twenty first century Latino artists writers poets playwrights performers and filmmakers made the Mission their home and their muse The Mission home to Chileans Cubans Guatemalans Mexican Americans Nicaraguans Puerto Ricans and Salvadorans never represented a single Latino identity In tracing the experiences of a diverse group of Latino artists from the 1940s to the turn of the century Cordova connects wide ranging aesthetics to a variety of social movements and activist interventions The book begins with the history of the Latin Quarter in the 1940s and the subsequent cultivation of the Beat counterculture in the 1950s demonstrating how these decades laid the groundwork for the artistic and political renaissance that followed Using oral histories visual culture and archival research she analyzes the Latin jazz scene of the 1940s Latino involvement in the avant garde of the 1950s the Chicano movement and Third World movements of the 1960s the community mural movement of the 1970s the transnational liberation movements in Nicaragua and El Salvador and the AIDS activism of the 1980s Through these different historical frames Cordova links the creation of Latino art with a flowering of Latino politics

Middleton, 2019-09-03 Analyzes textbooks in the Dominican Republic for evidence of reproducing Haitian Otherness

Unmastering the Script Education Critical Race Theory and the Struggle to Reconcile the Haitian Other in Dominican Identity examines how school curriculum based representations of Dominican identity navigate black racial identity its relatedness to Haiti and the culturally entrenched pejorative image of the Haitian Other in Dominican society Wigginton and Middleton analyze how social science textbooks and historical biographies intended for young Dominicans reflect an increasing shift toward a clear and public inclusion of blackness in Dominican identity that serves to renegotiate the country's long standing antiblack racial master script The authors argue that although many of the attempts at this inclusion reflect a lessening of black denial when considered as a whole the materials often struggle to find a consistent and coherent narrative for the place of blackness within Dominican identity particularly regarding the ways in which blackness continues to be meaningfully related to the otherness of Haitian racial identity Unmastering the Script approaches the text materials as an example of reconstructing and unburying an African past supporting the uneven slow and highly context specific nature of the process This work engages with multiple disciplines including history anthropology education and race studies building on a new wave of Dominican scholarship that considers how contemporary perspectives of Dominican identity both accept the existence of an African past and seek to properly weigh its importance The use of critical race theory as the framework facilitates unfolding the past political and legal agendas of governing elites in the Dominican Republic and also helps to unlock the nuance of an increasingly black inclusive Dominican identity In addition this framework allows the unveiling of some of the socially damaging effects the Haitian Other master script can have on children particularly those of Haitian ancestry in the Dominican Republic The Pan American Round Table Lois Terry Marchbanks,1983 Amadito and the Hero Children Enrique R.
