Nurturing A Child's Mental Health (8th-9th Body, Mind & Life Conference Presentations)
 [Men-Tsee-Khang-ཏཱ་ལའ་བོ་མཆོག་] Dr. (Ms.) Tenzin Choying, HoD, BML Dept, TASP (Ms.) Sonam Tsamchoe, BML Dept, Dr. (Mr.) Tsultrim Namgyal, BML Dept, Mr. Tenzin Kalden, Translator, BML Dept, 2020-03-23 MESSAGE OF HIS HOLINESS THE 14TH DALAI LAMA Leaving aside the complex question of the creation and evolution of our universe we can at least agree that each of us is the product of our own parents In general our conception took place not just in the context of sexual desire but from our parents decision to have a child Such decisions are founded on responsibility and altruism the parent s

compassionate commitment to care of their child until it is able to take care of itself Thus from the very moment of our conception our parents love is directly in our creation Moreover we are completely dependent upon our mothers care from the earliest stages of our growth According to some scientists a pregnant woman s mental state be it calm or agitated has a direct physical effect on her unborn child The expression of love is also very important at the time of birth Since the very first thing we do is suck milk from our mothers breast we naturally feel close to her and she must feel love for us in order to feed us properly if she feels anger or resentment her milk may not flow freely Then there is the critical period of brain development from the time of birth up to at least the age of three or four during which time loving physical contact is the single most important factor for the normal growth of the child If the child is not held hugged cuddled or loved its development will be impaired and its brain will not mature properly Since a child cannot survive without the care of others love is its most important nourishment The happiness of childhood the allaying of the child s many fears and the healthy development of its self confidence all depend directly upon love Nowadays many children grow up in unhappy homes If they do not receive proper affection in later life they will rarely love their parents and not infrequently will find it hard to love others This is very sad As children grow older and enter school their need for support must be met by their teachers If a teacher not only imparts academic education but also assumes responsibility for preparing students for life his or her pupils will feel trust and respect and what has been taught will leave an indelible impression on their minds On the other hand subjects taught by a teacher who does not show true concern for his or her students overall well being will be regarded as temporary and not retained for long Above is an excerpt from the section on Articles and messages relating to His Holiness the Dalai Lama s commitment to promote basic human values <https://www.dalailama.com/messages/compassion-and-human-values/compassion> has long been argued that families play a crucial role in helping support prisoners during and beyond their time in prison. Through harnessing material and emotional support offered through family, prisoners can have a stronger commitment to move towards prosocial pathways via these important social ties. Yet often overlooked are the experiences of families themselves in providing support for prisoners. This book focuses on parents whose adolescent male children are sent to prison. Charting many of the adversities which parents face from violence, psychological stress to stigma and shame, the book provides one of the first empirical assessments of the ways parents manage the consequences of serious crime and navigate relationships with their children in prison. As well as documenting major social hardships of imprisonment, the book will also assess the heterogeneous impacts on relationships between parents and their male children, including cases where relationships may improve or worsen over the sentence. With sensitivity to issues of gender, ethnicity and inequality in families, this book sheds new light on many of the problems of youth crime and presents a highly topical insight into the effects of imprisonment on parents. An accessible and compelling read, this book will appeal to students and scholars of criminology, youth justice, sociology and all those interested in the role of families in supporting prisoners.

Rural Families and Work Jean W. Bauer, Elizabeth M. Dolan, 2011-09-15 Rural Families and Work focuses on the findings of the Rural Families Speak research study and the theoretical frameworks that are utilized to examine the context of rural low income families, employment. This volume provides a solid foundation for understanding rural employment problems and issues. Family ecological theory is the central framework with a discussion of theories that contribute to the opportunities for the contextual research, including family economic stress theory, human capital, human capability and some selected policy frameworks. Employment is addressed through review of policy issues, community contexts, family and social support and available resources. Throughout the volume, future research directions and applications are highlighted.

Heroes with Humble Beginnings F.M. Kail, 2019-05-10 We are a nation of underdogs founded by immigrants seeking a better life. This book reminds us of the humble beginnings of some of the greatest ballplayers, movie stars and Presidents of all time, men who faced adversities growing up and who, in overcoming them, gave credence to the American Dream.

Does My Child Have PTSD? Jolene Philo, 2015-10-13 A mother, advocate and educator shares research and personal experience in this guide to help anyone care for children dealing with PTSD. Is it possible that the struggles you have with your child may be because he or she suffers from post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD)? Once ignored even by the medical professionals treating war veterans, PTSD is gaining global recognition as a very real and serious issue for those who have experienced traumatic events, even children. When children experience medical illness, witness violence or are abused, it can leave a lasting effect. According to recent studies, 50 to 60 percent of children who experience these traumas early in life may suffer from a form of PTSD leading to issues in childhood through adolescence and even into adulthood. Does My Child Have PTSD? is designed for readers looking for answers about the puzzling, disturbing behaviors of children in their care. With years of research and personal experience Philo provides critical information to help people understand causes symptoms prevention and effective diagnosis treatment and care for any child struggling with PTSD Philo s dramatic story will capture the reader s attention and there s tremendous value in her patient explanations from a simple definition of trauma to an exploration of PTSD causes myths and common terminology Though occasionally heart wrenching the book is organized so simply and logically as to be easy to follow and digest Each chapter ends with reflection questions and additional valuable resources Philo concludes on a hopeful note providing encouragement and reassurance for other families in similar situations Publishers Weekly Starred Review
