The Paleoanthropology and Archaeology of Big-Game Hunting John D. Speth, 2010-09-08 Since its inception paleoanthropology has been closely wedded to the idea that big game hunting by our hominin ancestors arose first and foremost as a means for acquiring energy and vital nutrients This assumption has rarely been questioned and seems intuitively obvious meat is a nutrient rich food with the ideal array of amino acids and big animals provide meat in large convenient packages Through new research the author of this volume provides a strong argument that the primary goals of big game hunting were actually social and political increasing hunter s prestige and standing and that the nutritional component was just an added bonus Through a comprehensive interdisciplinary research approach the author examines the historical and current perceptions of protein as an important nutrient source the biological impact of a high protein diet and the evidence of this in the archaeological record and provides a compelling reexamination of this long held conclusion This volume will be of interest to researchers in Archaeology Evolutionary Biology and Paleoanthropology particularly those studying diet and nutrition

The Biology and Utilization of Shrubs Cyrus McKell, 2012-12-02 The Biology and Utilization of Shrubs brings together the wide range of information about shrubs from many disciplines and world locations The book is organized into seven parts Part I describes the major shrublands found on each of the vegetated continents It provides an overview of the dominant shrubland types as well as the associated features of soil and climate that influence the geographic distribution of major shrub species Part II discusses environmental influences and plant responses Part III considers the range of genetic diversity for important traits and how these may vary in different habitats Part IV discusses the effects of stress on physiological processes of shrubs and the kinds of strategies shrubs employ to meet physiological stress Part V offers evidence to support the claim that the many virtues of shrubs provide a basis for sustaining shrub use for livestock fodder wildlife habitat reclamation and erosion control fuel and naturalized landscaping Part VI outlines methods for collecting and processing seeds from natural stands or from superior genotypes planted in seed production orchards Part

VII describes cultural adaptation to shrub use in a livestock dominated primitive culture followed by a detailed economic analysis of establishing shrub plantations to improve livestock production      Tables of Composition of Australian Aboriginal Foods Janette Brand Miller, Keith William James, Patricia Margaret Anne Maggiore, 1993 Tables of vegetables fruits animal foods and insect products analysed for their nutritional composition      Australian Dry-zone Acacias for Human Food Alan Pennock Newton House, C. Chance and Commitment Basil S. Hetzel, 2005 The work of Dr Basil Hetzel and his team of researchers has prevented and will continue to prevent millions of people worldwide from being born intellectually disabled In this memoir Hetzel recalls his discovery that a single dose of iodized oil added to the diet of pregnant women could eradicate the serious birth defects that had plagued many developing countries      Flammable Australia Ross A. Bradstock, Jann E. Williams, Malcolm A. Gill, 2002 Fire is pivotal to the functioning of ecosystems in Australia affecting the distribution and abundance of the continent's unique and highly diverse range of plants and animals. Conservation of this natural biodiversity therefore requires a good understanding of scientific processes involved in the action of fire on the landscape. This book provides an up to date synthesis of current knowledge in this area and its application in contemporary land management. Central to the discussion is an exploration of the concept of the fire regime and its interactions with biodiversity.

The Action Plan for Australian Mammals 2012 Andrew Burbidge, John Woinarski, Peter Harrison, 2014-06-02 The Action Plan for Australian Mammals 2012 is the first review to assess the conservation status of all Australian mammals. It complements The Action Plan for Australian Birds 2010 (Garnett et al 2011 CSIRO Publishing) and although the number of Australian mammal taxa is marginally fewer than for birds, the proportion of endemic extinct and threatened mammal taxa is far greater. These authoritative reviews represent an important foundation for understanding the current status, fate and future of the nature of Australia. This book considers all species and subspecies of Australian mammals including those of external territories and territorial seas. For all the mammal taxa about 300 species and subspecies considered Extinct, Threatened, Near Threatened or Data Deficient, the size and trend of their population is presented along with information on geographic range and trend and relevant biological and ecological data. The book also presents the current conservation status of each taxon under Australian legislation, what additional information is needed for managers and the required management actions. Recovery plans where they exist are evaluated. The voluntary participation of more than 200 mammal experts has ensured that the conservation status and information are as accurate as possible and allowed considerable unpublished data to be included. All accounts include maps based on the latest data from Australian state and territory agencies, from published scientific literature and other sources. The Action Plan concludes that 29 Australian mammal species have become extinct and 63 species are threatened and require urgent conservation action. However, it also shows that where guided by sound knowledge, management capability and resourcing and longer term commitment, there have been some notable conservation success stories and the conservation status of some species has greatly improved over the past few decades. The Action Plan for Australian Mammals 2012 makes a major contribution to the conservation of a wonderful legacy that is a significant part of Australia's heritage. For such a legacy to endure, our society must be more aware of and empathetic with our distinctively Australian environment and particularly its marvellous mammal fauna. Relevant information must be readily accessible, environmental policy and law must be based on sound evidence, those with responsibility for environmental management must be aware of what priority actions they should take, the urgency for action and consequences of inaction must be clear and the opportunity for hope and success must be recognised. It is in this spirit that this account is offered.
