Introducing the Diversity of Australia's Insects Tim R. New, 2011-08-29 The book introduces basic entomology emphasising perspectives on insect diversity important in conservation assessment and setting priorities for management as a foundation for managers and others without entomological training or background It bridges the gap between photographic essays on insect identification and more technical texts to illustrate and discuss many aspects of taxonomic ecological and evolutionary diversity in the Australian insect fauna and its impacts in human life through outlines of many aspects of insect natural history

Colonies of the World Edward John Payne, 1928

Australia And The British Embrace Stuart Ward, 2016-10-18 Until a generation ago Britishness lay at the heart of Australian political culture How and why did this fundamental idea lose its meaning for Australians and their political institutions The popular view is that the British ideal succumbed to a triumphant long thwarted Australian nationalism The reality is much more complex Having weighed the documentary evidence Stuart Ward vigorously argues that it was not Australia but the Mother Country that set the pace The critical move was the Macmillan Government's decision in the early 1960s to seek membership of the European Economic Community Thereafter the ties of imperial sentiment and the dictates of national self interest were essentially irreconcilable Australia's attachment to being British was profoundly shaken and the contours of Australian nationhood were irreversibly redrawn Australia and the British Embrace is an engrossing account of the unravelling of Britishness in Australian political life The consequences of that unravelling continue to dominate Australian politics from multiculturalism to Aboriginal reconciliation engagement with Asia and above all the prospect of a republic

Postcolonial Film Rebecca Weaver-Hightower, Peter Hulme, 2014-02-24 Postcolonial Film History Empire Resistance examines films of the later twentieth and early twenty first centuries from postcolonial countries around the globe In the mid twentieth century the political reality of resistance and decolonization lead to the creation of dozens of new states forming a backdrop to films of that period Towards the century's end and at the dawn of the new millennium film continues to form a site for interrogating colonization and decolonization though against a backdrop that is now more neo colonial than colonial and more culturally imperial than imperial This volume explores how individual films emerged from and commented on postcolonial spaces and the building and breaking down of the European empire Each chapter is a case study examining how a particular film from a postcolonial nation emerges from and reflects that nation's unique postcolonial situation This analysis of one nation's struggle with its coloniality allows each essay to investigate just what it means to be postcolonial

Cultural Encounters in Translated Children's Literature Helen Frank,2014-04-08

Cultural Encounters in Translated Children's Literature offers a detailed and innovative model of analysis for examining the complexities of translating children's literature and sheds light on the interpretive choices at work in moving texts from one culture to another The core of the study addresses the issue of how images of a nation locale or country are constructed in translated children's literature with the translation of Australian children's fiction into French serving as a case study Issues examined include the selection of books for translation the relationship between children's books and the national and international publishing industry the packaging of translations and the importance of titles blurbs and covers the linguistic and stylistic features specific to translating for children intertextual references the function of the translation in the target culture didactic and pedagogical aims euphemistic language and explicitation and literariness in translated texts The findings of the case study suggest that the most common constructs of Australia in French translations reveal a preponderance of traditional Eurocentric signifiers that identify Australia with the outback the antipodes the exotic the wild the unknown the void the end of the world the young and innocent nation and the Far West Contemporary signifiers that construct Australia as urban multicultural Aboriginal worldly and inharmonious are seriously under represented The study also shows that French translations are conventional conservative and didactic showing preference for an exotic rather than local specificity with systematic manipulation of Australian referents betraying a perception of Australia as antipodean rural exoticism The significance of the study lies in underscoring the manner in which a given culture is constructed in another cultural milieu especially through translated children's literature

Aboriginal Art and Australian Society Laura Fisher,2016-05-30 This book is an investigation of the way the Aboriginal art phenomenon has been entangled with Australian society's negotiation of Indigenous people's status within the nation Through critical reflection on Aboriginal art's idiosyncrasies as a fine arts movement its vexed relationship with money and its mediation of the politics of identity and recognition this study illuminates the mutability of Aboriginal art's meanings in different settings It reveals that this mutability is a consequence of the fact that a range of governmental activist and civil society projects have appropriated the art's vitality and metonymic power in national public culture and that Aboriginal art is as much a phenomenon of visual and commercial culture as it is an art movement Throughout these examinations Fisher traces the utopian and dystopian currents of thought that have crystallised around the Aboriginal art movement and which manifest the ethical conundrums that underpin the settler state condition
