exploratory surveys in countries with supposed differences in dietary patterns lifestyle and heart disease rates in the early 1950s the Seven Countries Study took off in 1958 This study established relationships between risk factors and development of heart disease in middle aged men in health examined in countries with cultures we demonstrated to contrast in diet and lifestyle The results obtained in the Seven Countries Study from its inception till now are presented in this book entitled Prevention of coronary heart disease Diet lifestyle and risk factors in the Seven Countries Study Long ago I realized that our concern should not be restricted to the prevention of coronary heart disease but should be extended to all diseases and premature death

Preventing Disease Richard B. Goldbloom, Robert S. Lawrence, 2012-12-06 Preventing Disease the offspring of an extraordinary collaboration between the U S and Canadian Preventive Services Task Forces presents a meticulous and objective review of the published evidence on preventive measures Examining such diverse and relevant topics as screening for endometrial cancer exercise counselling for healthy adults and the evidence for a causal relation between dietary lipids and coronary heart disease this volume reflects the editors shared conviction that recommendations for preventive action should rarely exceed what is well justified by the evidence In the current period characterized as the Second Public Health Revolution the authors hard nosed approach leads them to ask the tough questions Are preventive measures cost saving Does preventive screening actually lead to treatment in clinical practice Does the treatment do more good than harm To what extent does our desire to eliminate causes of serious disability ill health and premature death cloud our objectivity All concerned about preventive medicine community health and primary care will find valuable stimulation for thought and action in this book the contributions have gone beyond the rhetoric

Behavioral Medicine Approaches to Cardiovascular Disease Prevention Kristina Orth-Gomer, Neil Schneiderman, 2013-05-13 Cardiovascular disease CVD is the number one killer of men and women in industrialized countries In older age groups CVD is also the most important cause for hospitalization and in many countries it is the basis of early retirement from work Thus CVD is associated with enormous costs for care and loss of productivity as well as for disabilities pensions etc All this has motivated clinicians and scientists to develop and implement new methodologies and technologies to better care for patients who are hospitalized for heart disease Efforts to improve care in the acute phases of coronary heart disease CHD have been successful During the last decade the immediate mortality risk of a patient admitted to coronary care for a suspected myocardial infarction or other acute coronary syndrome has decreased to less than 10% Despite these achievements CVD continues to represent a major threat to the health of middle aged and elderly men and women This volume addresses myriad aspects of CHD prevention including biobehavioral and psychosocial factors behavioral epidemiology behavioral intervention models and policy The first section of the text provides an introduction to CVD prevention and behavioral medicine The second section introduces two theoretically different approaches to preventive action high risk and population based strategies The third section describes and discusses the important questions of how behavioral sciences can be conceptually integrated into traditional medically based preventive efforts The fourth section presents both population and high risk behavioral intervention approaches In summary this volume examines the social environment and its potentials for preventive actions reviews the psychosocial and biobehavioral mechanisms involved in these effects and describes concrete and practical implementations of behavioral medicine knowledge as they have been applied to CHD prevention
