The Redesigned Forest Chris Maser,1990 Wild Hunger Bruce Wilshire, 1999-10-27 Why is it that even amidst affluence and power our culture is plagued by a variety of addictions In this pioneering work Bruce Wilshire searches for answers by giving serious attention to our genetic legacy from our hunter gatherer ancestors as well as to the unique ways we adapt to our environment through the practice of science and the creation of art and cities The work considers remedies for specific addictions including drugs alcohol cigarettes and gambling suggesting that wilderness exploration in the arts myths and ceremonies can help us rediscover what it means to be human creatures Bringing together the insights of philosophy religion cultural anthropology behavioral biology and the vast socio medical literature on addiction Wilshire ingeniously explores the limits of our adaptive capacity and the costs of depleting the natural regenerative functions of the Readings in the Philosophy of Technology David M. Kaplan, 2009-10-16 Ideal for professors who want to provide body a comprehensive set of the most important readings in the philosophy of technology from foundational to the cutting edge this book introduces students to the various ways in which societies technologies and environments shape one another The readings examine the nature of technology as well as the effects of technologies upon human knowledge activities societies and environments Students will learn to appreciate the ways that philosophy informs our understanding of technology and to see how technology relates to ethics politics nature human nature computers science food and animals Recovery Project, Klamath National Forest, Final Environmental Impact Statement United States. Forest Service. Pacific Southwest Region, 1990 Thinking like a Mall Steven Vogel, 2016-09-02 A provocative argument that environmental thinking would be better off if it dropped the concept of nature altogether and spoke instead of the built environment Environmentalism in theory and practice is concerned with protecting nature But if we have now reached the end of nature as Bill McKibben and other environmental thinkers have declared what is there left to protect In Thinking like a Mall Steven Vogel argues that environmental thinking would be better off if it dropped the concept of nature altogether and spoke instead of the environment that is the world that actually surrounds us which is always a built world the only one that we inhabit We need to think not so much like a mountain as Aldo Leopold urged as like a mall Shopping malls too are part of the environment and deserve as much serious consideration from environmental thinkers as do mountains Vogel argues provocatively that environmental philosophy in its ethics should no longer draw a distinction between the natural and the artificial and in its politics should abandon the idea that something beyond human practices such as nature can serve as a standard determining what those practices ought to be The appeal to nature distinct from the built environment he contends may be not merely unhelpful to environmental thinking but in itself harmful to that thinking The question for environmental philosophy is not how can we save nature but rather what environment should we inhabit and what practices should we engage in to help build it Klamath National Forest (N.F.), Baldy Fire Recovery Project, 1990 Forest Dreams. Orr,1992-01-01 The most important discoveries of the 20th century exist not in the realm of science medicine or technology but rather in the dawning awareness of the earth's limits and how those limits will affect human evolution Humanity has reached a crossroad where various ecological catastrophes meet what some call sustainable development While a great deal of attention has been given to what governments corporations utilities international agencies and private citizens can do to help in the transition to sustainability little thought has been given to what schools colleges and universities can do Ecological Literacy asks how the discovery of finiteness affects the content and substance of education Given the limits of the earth what should people know and how should they learn it Against Capitalism John Bellamy Foster, 2002-02 In recent years John Bellamy Foster has emerged as a leading theorist of the Marxist perspective on ecology His seminal book Marx s Ecology Monthly Review Press 2000 discusses the place of ecological issues within the intellectual history of Marxism and on the philosophical foundations of a Marxist ecology and has become a major point of reference in ecological debates This historical and philosophical focus is now supplemented by more directly political engagement in his new book Ecology against Capitalism In a broad ranging treatment of contemporary ecological politics Foster deals with such issues as pollution sustainable development technological responses to environmental crisis population growth soil fertility the preservation of ancient forests and the new economy of the Internet age Foster's introduction sets out the unifying themes of these essays enabling the reader to draw from them a consolidated approach to a rapidly expanding field of debate which is of critical importance in our times Within these debates on the politics of ecology Foster's work develops an important and distinctive perspective Where many of these debates assume a basic divergence of red and green issues and are concerned with the exact terms of a trade off between them Foster argues that Marxismproperly understoodalready provides the framework within which ecological questions are best approached This perspective is advanced here in accessible and concrete form taking account of the major positions in contemporary ecological debate Gardening with a Wild Heart Judith Larner Lowry, 2007-03-19 Judith Lowry s voice and experiences make a rich matrix for essays that include discussions of wildflower gardening the ecology of native grasses wildland seed collecting principles of natural design and plant animal interactions This lyrical and articulate mix of the practical and the poetic combines personal story wildland ecology restoration gardening practices and native plant horticulture Designing The Landscaping Ideas of Jays Judith Larner Lowry, 2007-04-16 This volume Sustainable Forest Landscapes, celebrates the beauty the challenges and the rewards of growing native plants at home Organized by season the author offers guidance on how to plan a garden with birds plants and insects in mind how to shape it with trees and shrubs paths and trails ponds and other features and how to cultivate maintain and harvest seeds and food from a diverse array of native annuals and perennials She demonstrates to gardeners in California how to boost native plant diversity while attracting wildlife and conserving water Designing Sustainable Forest Landscapes Simon Bell, Dean Apostol, 2007-12-20 Designing Sustainable Forest Landscapes is a definitive guide to the design and management of forest landscapes covering the theory and principles of forest design as well as providing practical guidance on methods and tools Including a variety of international case studies the book focuses on ecosystem regeneration the management of natural forests and the
