Religion and Innovation Donald A. Yerxa, 2015-12-17 It is often assumed that religion is the backward looking servant of tradition and the status quo utterly opposed to the new This refrain in so much of recent polemical writing has permeated the public mind and can even be found in academic publications But recent scholarship increasingly shows that this view is a gross simplification that in fact religious beliefs and practices have contributed to significant changes in human affairs political and legal social and artistic scientific and commercial This is certainly not to say that religion is always innovative But the relationship between religion and innovation is much more complex and instructive than is generally assumed Religion and Innovation includes contributions from leading historians archaeologists and social scientists who offer findings about the relationship between religion and innovation The essays collected in this volume range from discussions of the transformative power of religion in early societies to re examinations of our notions of naturalism secularization and progress to explorations of cutting edge contemporary issues Combining scholarly rigor with clear accessible writing Religion and Innovation Antagonists or Partners is essential reading for anyone interested in the history of religion and the ongoing debates about its role in the modern world and into the future

Asian Religions, Technology and Science István Keul,2015-03-27 Over the past five decades the field of religion and science scholarship has experienced a considerable expansion This volume explores the historical and contemporary perspectives of the relationship between religion technology and science with a focus on South and East Asia These three areas are not seen as monolithic entities but as discursive fields embedded in dynamic processes of cultural exchange and transformation Bridging these arenas of knowledge and practice traditionally seen as distinct and disconnected the book reflects on the ways of exploring the various dimensions of their interconnection Through its various chapters the collection provides an examination of the use of modern scientific concepts in the theologies of new religious organizations and challenges the traditional notions of space by Western scientific conceptions in the 19th century It looks at the synthesis of ritual elements and medical treatment in China and India and at new funeral practices in Japan It discusses the intersections between contemporary Western Buddhism modern technology and global culture and goes on to look at women s rights in contemporary Pakistani media Using case studies grounded in carefully delineated temporal and regional frameworks chapters are grouped in two sections one on religion and science and another on religion and technology Illustrating the manifold perspectives and the potential for further research and discussion this book is an important contribution to the studies of Asian Religion Science and Technology and Religion and Philosophy
