Religion Of Art:

Religion and the Arts: History and Method Diane Apostolos-Cappadona, 2017-11-06 In Religion and the Arts History and Method Diane Apostolos Cappadona presents an overview of the 19th century origins of this discrete field of study and its methodological journey to the present day through issues of repatriation museum exhibitions and globalization Apostolos Cappadona suggests that the fluidity and flexibility of the study of religion and the arts has expanded like an umbrella since the 1970s and the understanding that art was simply a visual exegesis of texts to now support the study of material popular and visual culture as well as gender She also delivers a careful analysis of the evolution of thought from traditional iconographies to the transformations once scholars were influenced by response theory and challenged by globalization and technology Religion and the Arts History and Method offers an indispensable introduction to the questions and perspectives essential to the study of this field

The Religious Art of Andy Warhol Jane Dillenberger, Andy Warhol, 1998 An examination of the spiritual side of Warhol looks at his art during his final years which includes paintings based on Leonardo da Vinci's Last Supper and Warhol's Skull and Cross paintings

Religion as Art Thomas R. Martland, 1982-06-30 Religion in its most authentic part is an art form Religion does what art does This idea is richly illustrated and supported by materials of diverse origin The vast range of the author's experience in the arts and in religious texts and works of aesthetics allows him to lay hold of a great mass of disparate material and to bring out new dimensions in all of it He always has just the example he needs at his fingertips a Tibetan Buddhist text next to a French impressionist painting and a remark about early Banogu counterpoint and each example is seen in a new and interesting way Through this gentle yoking together of heterogeneous materials common roots are discovered Most studies of art and religion describe and explain them as data Thomas Martland identifies them as expressions of ideals and asks what they are when they are authentic rather than merely what they are when they are self identified as art and religion This is an identification through assessment not an Aristotelian classification and the means of assessment are provided

Art and Religion in Africa Rosalind Hackett, 1998-10-01 Africa's religious and artistic traditions constitute a primary example of its intellectual and cultural vitality Artistic works play a vital role especially where oral traditions dominate in communicating ideas about the relationship between the human spiritual and natural worlds This work is a comparative study of Africa's visual and performing arts concentrating on their geographical material and gendered diversity and focusing on the relation of these arts to African religion The author combines ethnographic and art historical methodology but does not assume any prior knowledge of African art or African religion The text seeks a greater understanding of the philosophical and religious aspects of African art thus challenging western perceptions of what is important in terms of artistic representation This approach reveals the transformative capacities and multi dimensionality of African art The work also highlights the changes brought about by Christianity Islam and the newer religious movements in post colonial Africa Art, Creativity, and the Sacred Diane Apostolos-Cappadona,1984 Contributors include Doug and Linda Altshuler Mircea Eliade Langdon Gilkey Barbara Novak and many others A seminal work widely adopted Religious Studies Review Art As Religious Studies Douglas G. Adams,Diane Apostolos-Cappadona,2001-04-17 The Art of the Sacred Graham Howes,2006-11-24 The field of art and religion is fast becoming one of the most dynamic areas of religious studies Uniquely The Art of the Sacred explores the relationship between religion and the visual arts and vice versa within Christianity and other major religious traditions It identifies and describes the main historical theological sociological and aesthetic dimensions of religious art with particular attention to popular as well as high culture and within societies of the developing world It also attempts to locate and predict the forms and functions of such art in a changing contemporary context of obligation modernity secularism and fundamentalism The author concentrates on four chief dimensions where religious art and religious belief converge the iconographic the didactic the institutional and the aesthetic This clear well organised and imaginative treatment of the subject should prove especially attractive to students of religion and visual culture as well as to artists and art historians

Last Things Christine Göttler, 2010 The biblical expression providere novissima the foreseeing of the Last Things brought about a vast exegetical didactic and devotional literature that made use of a rich imagery of vision and sight The artistic play with and in some cases actual use of optical telescopic and mirroring devices pointed to and expanded upon the limitations of corporeal sight while at the same time blurring the distinctions between the miraculous the marvellous and the curious Based on a detailed study of visual and textual sources most of which were previously unknown Göttler s book contributes to an ongoing interdisciplinary discussion of the changing functions meanings and values of material and mental images in early modern art and religious practice Centering on various sets of art works and artefacts indulgenced prints illustrations in meditation treatises sculptural ensembles for a Sacro Monte wax works on a miniature scale and fire and hell scenes by Flemish artists she argues that the imagery of the Last Things was linked to key problems of visual representation and to an increasing awareness of the artwork as a site of communication and exchange The book sheds new light on the dynamics of response and the place of the viewer as well as on visual strategies and techniques of enhancing the efficacy of an artwork making it memorable emotionally engaging and alive It reintroduces notions of materiality and craft into the discussion of art thus exploring a theme central to early modern thought but one largely neglected in scholarship until recent years
