Studies in Byzantine, Islamic and Near Eastern Silk Weaving Anna Muthesius, 2006-12-31 This volume complements Anna Muthesius two earlier ground breaking volumes in the field of silk as material culture Studies in Byzantine and Islamic Silk Weaving and Studies in Silk in Byzantium The publication highlights the fact that similar patterns of selection were at work in the acquisition of silks by secular and ecclesiastical bodies These patterns of selection were governed not only by fashions of the time but by access to international trade routes leading to the Great Silk Road linking the Near East to the Mediterranean The surviving silks prove that Mediterranean Near Eastern silk trade flourished continuously and for centuries prior to the thirteenth century contrary to what has previously widely been assumed It also highlights the crucial role of the Caucasian silk routes in accessing the Great Silk Road in the early period and the contribution of Georgian and Armenian silk weaving after the thirteenth century Above all the book demonstrates how important it is to assess the impact of Near Eastern silk manufacture and distribution in relation to Byzantine and Islamic Mediterranean silk production and trade

Religion in Roman Egypt David Frankfurter,2020-06-30 This exploration of cultural resilience examines the complex fate of classical Egyptian religion during the centuries from the period when Christianity first made its appearance in Egypt to when it became the region s dominant religion roughly 100 to 600 C E Taking into account the full range of witnesses to continuing native piety from papyri and saints lives to archaeology and terracotta figurines and drawing on anthropological studies of folk religion David Frankfurter argues that the religion of Pharonic Egypt did not die out as early as has been supposed but was instead relegated from political centers to village and home where it continued a vigorous existence for centuries In analyzing the fate of the Egyptian oracle and of the priesthoods the function of magical texts and the dynamics of domestic cults Frankfurter describes how an ancient culture maintained itself while also being transformed through influences such as Hellenism Roman government and Christian dominance Recognizing the special characteristics of Egypt which differentiated it from the other Mediterranean cultures that were undergoing simultaneous social and political changes he departs from the traditional decline of paganism triumph of Christianity model most often used to describe the Roman period By revealing late Egyptian religion in its Egyptian historical context he moves us away from scenarios of Christian triumph and shows us how long and how energetically pagan worship survived Textile Messages C cilia
