The Sea-craft of Prehistory Paul Johnstone, Sean McGrail, 1980 A detailed account of man's use of inland and ocean going craft from the earliest times until the dawn of history using new archaeological research All forms of evidence are assessed from the vessels of ancient Egypt to the Chinese junk

The Sea-craft of Prehistory Paul Johnstone, 1988 A detailed account of man's use of inland and ocean going craft from the earliest times until the dawn of history using new archaeological research All forms of evidence are assessed from the vessels of ancient Egypt to the Chinese junk The nautical dimension of prehistory has not so far received the attention it deserves It is also too often assumed that early man was land bound yet this is demonstrably not the case Recent research has shown that man travelled and tracked over greater distances and at a much earlier date than has previously been thought possible Some of these facts can be explained only by man's mastery of water transport from earliest times This book by an acknowledged expert on prehistoric sea craft examines these problems looking at the new archaeological information in the light of the author's nautical knowledge The result is a detailed account of man's use of inland and ocean going craft from earliest times until the dawn of recorded history All forms of evidence are critically assessed from the vessels of Ancient Egypt to the Chinese junk to present of comprehensive picture of the vessels men have built through the ages and of the variety of ways in which they have been used

Transnationalism in Ancient and Medieval Societies Michael C. Howard, 2014-01-10 While scholars have long documented the migration of people in ancient and medieval times they have paid less attention to those who traveled across borders with some regularity This study of early transnational relations explores the routine interaction of people across the boundaries of empires tribal confederacies kingdoms and city states paying particular attention to the role of long distance trade along the Silk Road and maritime trade routes It examines the obstacles voyagers faced including limited travel and communication capabilities relatively poor geographical knowledge and the dangers of a fragmented and shifting political landscape and offers profiles of better known transnational elites such as the Hellenic scholar Herodotus and the Venetian merchant Marco Polo as well lesser known servants merchants and sailors By revealing the important political economic and cultural role cross border trade and travel played in ancient society this work demonstrates that transnationalism is not unique to modern times Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here Human Dispersal and Species Movement Nicole Boivin,Rémy Crassard,Michael

Petraglia,2017-05-27 A unique interdisciplinary and up to date treatment exploring human migration and its role in creating novel ecosystems over the long term Archaeology and the Social History of Ships Richard A. Gould,2000-04-13 Maritime archaeology deals with shipwrecks and is carried out by divers rather than diggers But this is by no means a marginal branch of archaeology It embraces maritime history analysing changes in ship building navigation reconstructing the infrastructure of waterborne commerce and offers fresh perspectives on the cultures and societies that produced the ships and sailors Drawing on detailed and recent case studies Richard Gould provides an up to date review of the field and a clear exposition of new developments in undersea technologies He also argues for the careful management of underwater cultural resources

The Archaeology of Seafaring in Ancient South Asia Himanshu Prabha Ray,2003-08-14 Prior to European expansion communities of the Indian subcontinent had a strong maritime orientation In this new archaeological study Himanshu Prabha Ray explores seafaring activity religious travel and political economy in this ancient period By using archaeological data from the Red Sea to the Indonesian archipelago she reveals how the early history of peninsular South Asia is interconnected with that of its Asian and Mediterranean partners in the Indian Ocean Region The book departs from traditional studies focusing on the communities maritime history rather than agrarian expansion and the emergence of the state Rather than being a prime mover in social economic and religious change the state is viewed as just one participant in a complex interplay of social actors including merchants guilds boat builders sailors pilgrims religious clergy and craft producers A study that will be welcomed by students of Archaeology and Ancient History particularly those interested in South Asian Studies years ago The basic bipoint is defined and its manufacturing processes are presented along with bipoint properties shape form resharpening and cultural associations This publication illustrates numerous bipoints from the Atlantic and Pacific states and within the U S and presents some of their inferred chronologies which are the oldest in the New World Several morphologies between American and Iberian bipoints are compared namely the famous Virginia Cinmar bipoint It concludes that a Solutrean occupation did occur on the U S Atlantic coastal plain The bipoint is the most misclassified artifact in American archaeology The book is indexed and has extensive references

Exploring Ancient Textiles Alistair Dickey, Margarita Gleba, Sarah Hitchens, Gabriella Longhitano, 2022-07-20 Over the past 30 years research on archaeological textiles has developed into an important field of scientific study It has greatly benefited from interdisciplinary approaches which combine the application of advanced technological knowledge to ethnographic textual and experimental investigations In exploring textiles and textile processing such as production and exchange in ancient societies archaeologists with different types and quality of data have shared their knowledge thus contributing to well established methodology In this book the papers highlight how researchers have been challenged to adapt or modify these traditional and more recently developed analytical methods to enable extraction of comparable data from often recalcitrant assemblages Furthermore they have applied new perspectives and approaches to extend the focus on less investigated aspects and artefacts The chapters embrace a broad geographical and chronological area ranging from South America and Europe to Africa and from the 11th millennium BC to the 1st millennium AD Methodological considerations are explored through the medium of three different themes focusing on tools textiles and fibres and culture and identity This volume constitutes a reflection on the status of current methodology and its applicability within the wider textile field Moreover it drives forward the methodological debates around textile research to generate new and stimulating conversations about the future of textile archaeology

Anthropological Perspectives on Technology Michael B. Schiffer,2001 These fourteen original essays accept a dual premise technology pervades and is embedded in all human activities By taking that approach studies of technology address two questions central in anthropological and archaeological research today accounting for variability and change These diverse yet interrelated chapters show that to understand human lives researchers must deal with the material world that all peoples create and inhabit Therefore an anthropology of technology is not a separate discrete inquiry instead it is a way to connect how people make and use things to any activity studied ranging from religion to enculturation to communication to art Each contributor discusses theories and methods and also offers a substantial case study These detailed inquiries span human societies from the Paleolithic to the computer age By moving beyond the usual approach of examining ancient technologies particularly chipped stone and low fired ceramics this volume probes for the construction of meaning in the material world across millennia The authors of these essays find technology to be an inclusive and flexible topic that merges with studies of everything else in human activity A provocative and powerful discussion of the role of technology in human cultures At a time when archaeology has become less focused on theory and archaeology and social anthropology seem to fracture farther and farther apart the book is a breath of fresh air Professor John Douglas University of Montana
