Marobavi A Study Of An Assimilated Group In Northern Sonora:

Marobavi: a Study of an Assimilated Group in Northern Sonora. [With Plates.] Roger C. Owen, 1959

Marobavi Roger C. Owen, 1959 Marobavi David A. Breternitz, Roger C. Owen, Ruth Warner Giddings, Thomas B. Hinton, 1959 The Marana Community in the Hohokam World Suzanne K. Fish, Paul R. Fish, John Henry Madsen, 1992

This account of Classic Period settlement in the Tucson Basin between A D 1100 and 1300 is the first comprehensive description of the organization of territory subsistence and society in a Hohokam community of an outlying region Broad recovery of settlement patterns reveals in unique detail the developmental history of the Marana Community and its hierarchical structure about a central site with a platform mound Remains of diverse agricultural technologies demonstrate the means for supporting populations of previously unrecognized size Reframing the Northern Rio Grande Pueblo

Economy Scott Ortman, 2019-04-30 Rio Grande pueblo societies took shape in the aftermath of significant turmoil and migration in the thirteenth century In the centuries that followed the size of Pueblo settlements level of aggregation degree of productive specialization extent of interethnic exchange and overall social harmony increased to unprecedented levels Economists recognize scale agglomeration the division of labor international trade and control over violence as important determinants of socioeconomic development in the modern world But is a development framework appropriate for understanding Rio Grande archaeology What do we learn about contemporary Pueblo culture and its resiliency when Pueblo history is viewed through this lens What does the exercise teach us about the determinants of economic growth more generally The contributors in this volume argue that ideas from economics and complexity science when suitably adapted provide a compelling approach to the archaeological record Contributors consider what we can learn about socioeconomic development through archaeology and explore how Pueblo culture and institutions supported improvements in the material conditions of life over time They examine demographic patterns the production and exchange of food cotton textiles pottery and stone tools and institutional structures reflected in village plans rock art and ritual artifacts that promoted peaceful exchange They also document change through time in various economic measures and consider their implications for theories of socioeconomic development The archaeological record of the Northern Rio Grande exhibits the hallmarks of economic development but Pueblo economies were organized in radically different ways than modern industrialized and capitalist economies This volume explores the patterns and determinants of economic development in pre Hispanic Rio Grande Pueblo society building a platform for more broadly informed research on this critical process Historic Zuni Architecture and Society Thomas John Ferguson, 1996-03 A unique approach to the Zuni Pueblo s history applying the architectural method of space syntax linking the structure of Zuni society to the structure of the architecture housing it Drawing heavily on archeological findings the volume nonetheless disputes the traditional archeological theory of population change as a basis for the changes in Zuni society but does not offer any clear theories of its own However Ferguson adjunct

curator of archeology Arizona State U does create a vivid historical architectural analysis of the Zuni culture society and social and architectural structure from 1540 to the 1980s Includes numerous diagrams illustrations and photographs The Great Arizona Orphan Abduction Linda Gordon,2011-02-09 In 1904 New York nuns brought forty Irish orphans to a remote Arizona mining camp to be placed with Catholic families The Catholic families were Mexican as was the majority of the population Soon the town s Anglos furious at this interracial transgression formed a vigilante squad that kidnapped the children and nearly lynched the nuns and the local priest The Catholic Church sued to get its wards back but all the courts including the U S Supreme Court ruled in favor of the vigilantes The Great Arizona Orphan Abduction tells this disturbing and dramatic tale to illuminate the creation of racial boundaries along the Mexican border Clifton Morenci Arizona was a wild West boomtown where the mines and smelters pulled in thousands of Mexican immigrant workers Racial walls hardened as the mines became big business and whiteness became a marker of superiority These already volatile race and class relations produced passions that erupted in the orphan incident To the Anglos of Clifton Morenci placing a white child with a Mexican family was tantamount to child abuse and they saw their kidnapping as a rescue Women initiated both sides of this confrontation Mexican women agreed to take in these orphans both serving their church and asserting a maternal prerogative Anglo women believed they had to save the orphans and they organized a vigilante squad to do it In retelling this nearly forgotten piece of American history Linda Gordon brilliantly recreates and dissects the tangled intersection of family and racial values in a gripping story that resonates with today s conflicts over the best interests of the child

Prehistoric Sandals from Northeastern Arizona Kelley Ann Hays-Gilpin,Ann Cordy Deegan,Elizabeth Ann Morris,2022-04-05 During the late 1920s and early 1930s archaeologists Earl and Ann Axtell Morris discovered an abundance of sandals from the Basketmaker II and III through Pueblo III periods while excavating rockshelters in northeastern Arizona These densely twined sandals made of yucca yarn were intricately crafted and elaborately decorated and Earl Morris spent the next 25 years overseeing their analysis description and illustration This is the first full published report on this unusual find which remains one of the largest collections of sandals in Southwestern archaeology This monograph offers an integrated archaeological and technical study of the footwear providing for the first time a full scale analysis of the complicated weave structures they represent Following an account by anthropologist Elizabeth Ann Morris of her parents research textile authority Ann Cordy Deegan gives an overview of prehistoric Puebloan sandal types and of twined sandal construction techniques revealing the subtleties distinguishing Basketmaker sandals of different time periods Anthropologist Kelley Ann Hays Gilpin then discusses the decoration of twined sandals and speculates on the purpose of such embellishment

Sourcing Prehistoric Ceramics at Chodistaas Pueblo, Arizona Mar'a Nieves Zede-o,1994 For decades archaeologists have used pottery to reconstruct the lifeways of ancient populations It has become increasingly evident however that to make inferences about prehistoric economic social and political activities through the patterning of ceramic variation it is necessary to determine the location where the vessels were made Through detailed analysis of manufacturing technology and design styles as well as the use of modern analytical techniques such as neutron activation analysis Zede o here demonstrates a broadly applicable methodology for identifying local and nonlocal ceramics

Ancient Maya Life in the Far West Bajo Julie L. Kunen, 2004 Human activity during centuries of occupation significantly altered the landscape inhabited by the ancient Maya of northwestern Belize In response the Maya developed new techniques to harvest the natural resources of their surroundings investing increased labor and raw materials into maintaining and even improving their ways of life In this lively story of life in the wetlands on the outskirts of the major site of La Milpa Julie Kunen documents a hitherto unrecognized form of intensive agriculture in the Maya lowlands one that relied on the construction of terraces and berms to trap soil and moisture around the margins of low lying depressions called bajos She traces the intertwined histories of residential settlements on nearby hills and ridges and agricultural terraces and other farming related features around the margins of the bajo as they developed from the Late Preclassic period 400 BC AD 250 until the area's abandonment in the Terminal Classic period about AD 850 Kunen examines the organization of three bajo communities with respect to the use and management of resources critical to agricultural production She argues that differences in access to spatially variable natural resources resulted in highly patterned settlement remains and that community founders and their descendants who had acquired the best quality and most diverse set of resources maintained an elevated status in the society The thorough integration of three lines of evidence the settlement system the agricultural system and the ancient environment breaks new ground in landscape research and in the study of Maya non elite domestic organization Kunen reports on the history of settlement and farming in a small corner of the Maya world but demonstrates that for any study of human environment interactions landscape history consists equally of ecological and cultural strands of influence

Of Marshes and Maize Bruce B. Huckell, 1995 While it was once believed that agriculture and pottery developed concurrently in prehistoric societies modern research has concluded that agriculture preceded pottery making since a sedentary life with greater food production led to both the need and time to create storage containers Bruce Huckell has been at the forefront of a movement in Arizona archaeology that has greatly modified our understanding of the transition from the Archaic to the agricultural periods in the Southwest Work done by Huckell and others at Matty Canyon has produced the most detailed account available of a Late Archaic village and has been extremely influential in suggesting that the cultivation of maize predated the appearance of pottery Of Marshes and Maize presents archaeological information obtained from small scale investigations at two deeply buried preceramic sites in the Cienega Creek Basin Its report on excavations at the Donaldson Site and at Los Ojitos offers a thorough description of archaeological features and artifacts floral and faunal remains and their geological and chronological contexts From this data the author concludes that a major shift toward a sedentary lifeway dependent on maize agriculture had already occurred by Late Archaic times c 500 to 800 B C demonstrating that previous research on late preceramic sites in this region has provided an inadequate picture of the period This monograph represents the first full presentation in the literature of an important set of data that is well known among researchers but has thus far not been easily accessible It is a classic example of the use of fragmentary evidence in well dated contexts to introduce new ideas and will stand not only as an important record of the evidence but also as the primary reference for this significant new interpretation of the late Archaic and the introduction of agriculture into the Southwest

In the Aftermath of Migration Anna A. Neuzil,2016-12-15 The Safford and Aravaipa valleys of Arizona have always lingered in the wings of Southwestern archaeology away from the spotlight held by the more thoroughly studied Tucson and Phoenix Basins the Mogollon Rim area and the Colorado Plateau Yet these two valleys hold intriguing clues to understanding the social processes particularly migration and the interaction it engenders that led to the coalescence of ancient populations throughout the Greater Southwest in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries A D Because the Safford and Aravaipa valleys show cultural influences from diverse areas of the pre Hispanic Southwest particularly the Phoenix Basin the Mogollon Rim and the Kayenta and Tusayan region they serve as a microcosm of many of the social changes that occurred in other areas of the Southwest during this time This research explores the social changes that took place in the Safford and Aravaipa valleys during the thirteenth through the fifteenth centuries A D as a result of an influx of migrants from the Kayenta and Tusayan regions of northeastern Arizona Focusing on domestic architecture and ceramics the author evaluates how migration affects the expression of identity of both migrant and indigenous populations in the Safford and Aravaipa valleys and provides a model for research in other areas where migration played an important role Archaeologists interested in the Greater Southwest will find a wealth of information on these little known valleys that provides contextualization for this important and intriguing time period and those interested in migration in the ancient past will find a useful case study that goes beyond identifying incidents of migration to understanding its long lasting implications for both migrants and the local people they impacted

Sonoran Strongman Rodolfo Acuña,2016-10-11 Sonoran Strongman provides an in depth look at a turbulent period in Mexico s history During this era Sonora was plagued with domestic unrest and threatened by foreign invasion The state s citizens hoping Ignacio Pesqueira would be the man of action capable of restoring order elected him governor by an overwhelming vote He became a virtual dictator and ruled Sonora from 1856 1876 Pesqueira was the product of troubled times and the times shaped his destiny Author Acuña presents an authoritative account of the Strongman s rise to power and vividly portrays the suffering of northern Mexico s people

Archaeology as Anthropology; a Case Study William A. Longacre,1970-06 This paper is important in the rapidly increasing preoccupation of American archeologists with the basic theories of their discipline An excellent example of how basic descriptive data can be used American Anthropologist

Murray Springs C. Vance Haynes,Bruce B. Huckell,2022-04-05 The Murray Springs Site in the upper San Pedro River Valley of southeast Arizona is one of the most significant Clovis sites ever found It contained a multiple bison kill a mammoth kill and possibly a horse kill in a deeply stratified sedimentary context Scattered across the buried occupation surface with the bones of late Pleistocene animals were several thousand stone tools and waste flakes from their manufacture and repair Because of the unique occurrence of an algal black mat that buried the Clovis age surface immediately after abandonment the distributional integrity of the artifacts and debitage clusters is exceptional for Paleoindian sites Excavation of the Clovis hunters camp 50 to 150 meters south of the kills revealed artifactual evidence typical of hunting camp activity including hide working and weapons repair Impact flakes conjoining with Clovis points clearly tied the camp to the bison kill The unique nature of the site and this comprehensive study of the excavated material constitute one of the most important contributions to our knowledge of Paleoindian hunters in the New World The Ceramic Sequence of the Holmul Region, Guatemala Michael G.

Callaghan, Nina Neivens de Estrada, 2016-11-29 New and comprehensive sequencing of the ceramics in Guatemala s Holmul region provides answers to important questions in Maya archaeology In this comprehensive and highly illustrated new study authors Callaghan and Neivens de Estrada use type variety mode classification to define a ceramic sequence that spans approximately 1 600 years Seventeenth-Century Metallurgy on the Spanish Colonial Frontier Noah H.

Thomas, 2018-11-13 A unique contribution to the archaeological literature on the Southwest Seventeenth Century Metallurgy on the Spanish Colonial Frontier introduces a wealth of data from one of the few known colonial metal production sites in the Southwest Archaeologist Noah H Thomas draws on and summarizes ten seasons of excavation from the Pueblo of Paa ko to provide a critical analysis of archaeological features and materials related to metal production during the early colonial period AD 1598 1680 Extrapolating from the data Thomas provides a theoretical interpretation of these data that is grounded in theories of agency practice and notions of value shaped in culture In addition to the critical analysis of archaeological features and materials this work brings to light a little known aspect of the colonial experience the production of metal by indigenous Pueblo people Using the ethnography of Pueblo peoples and seventh century European manuals of metallurgy Thomas addresses how the situated agency of indigenous practitioners incorporated within colonial industries shaped the metallurgy industry in the Spanish colonial period The resulting analysis investigates how economic technical and social knowledge was communicated contested and transformed across the social and cultural boundaries present in early colonial communities Viewing these transformations through an ethnohistorical lens Thomas builds a social and historical context within which to understand the decisions made by colonial actors at the time Patarata Pottery Barbara L. Stark, 1989 This monograph marks the first presentation of a detailed Classic period ceramic chronology for central and southern Veracruz the first detailed study of a Gulf Coast pottery production locale and the first sourcing distribution study of a Gulf Coast pottery complex The Winged Kaitlyn Moore Chandler, Wendi Field Murray, María Nieves Zedeño, Samrat Miller

Clements, Robert James, 2017-04-11 The Missouri River Basin is home to thousands of bird species that migrate across the Great Plains of North America each year marking the seasonal cycle and filling the air with their song In time immemorial

Native inhabitants of this vast region established alliances with birds that helped them to connect with the gods to learn the workings of nature and to live well This book integrates published and archival sources covering archaeology ethnohistory historical ethnography folklore and interviews with elders from the Blackfoot Assiniboine Mandan Hidatsa Arikara and Crow communities to explore how relationships between people and birds are situated in contemporary practice and what has fostered its cultural persistence Native principles of ecological and cosmological knowledge are brought into focus to highlight specific beliefs practices and concerns associated with individual bird species bird parts bird objects the natural and cultural landscapes that birds and people cohabit and the future of this ancient alliance Detailed descriptions critical to ethnohistorians and ethnobiologists are accompanied by thirty four color images A unique contribution The Winged expands our understanding of sets of interrelated dependencies or entanglements between bird and human agents and it steps beyond traditional scientific and anthropological distinctions between humans and animals to reveal the intricate and eminently social character of these interactions

Great House Communities Across the Chacoan Landscape John Kantner, Nancy M. Mahoney, 2000-03 Beginning in the tenth century Chaco Canyon emerged as an important center whose influence shaped subsequent cultural developments throughout the Four Corners area of the American Southwest Archaeologists investigating the prehistory of Chaco Canyon have long been impressed by its massive architecture evidence of widespread trading activities and ancient roadways that extended across the region Research on Chaco Canyon today is focused on what the remains indicate about the social political and ideological organization of the Chacoan people Communities with great houses located some distance away are of particular interest because determining how and why peripheral areas became associated with the central canyon provides insight into the evolution of the Chacoan tradition This volume brings together twelve chapters by archaeologists who suggest that the relationship between Chaco Canyon and outlying communities was not only complex but highly variable Their new research reveals that the most distant groups may have simply appropriated Chacoan symbolism for influencing local social and political relationships whereas many of the nearest communities appear to have interacted closely with the central canyon perhaps even living there on a seasonal basis The multifaceted approach taken by these authors provides different and refreshing perspectives on Chaco Their contributions offer new insight into what a Chacoan community is and shed light on the nature of interactions among prehistoric communities
