Marriage Property And Law In Late Imperial Russia:

Marriage, Property, and Law in Late Imperial Russia William G. Wagner, 1994 This study of civil law in late Imperial Russia shows how efforts to reform the law provoked conflict within and between the state administration the Orthodox Church and society in general

Marriage, Property, and Law in Late Imperial Russia William G. Wagner, 1994 This is the first systematic study of civil law in late Imperial Russia It shows that efforts to adjust family property and inheritance law to changing social and economic conditions often became intertwined with attempts to shape society in accordance with competing ideological ideals Through a restructuring of the family's legal basis members of the growing educated and professional strata of society in particular endeavoured to promote conflicting conceptions of authority individuality gender and law Legal reform also served for members of the emerging legal and medical professions as a way to establish their authority often at the expense of the state administration and the Orthodox Church Civil law in late Imperial Russia therefore constituted both an important medium for ideological redefinition and a field of battle for those seeking to reform to overthrow or to defend the ancien regime Because this battle extended into the state bureaucracy legislative change proved extremely difficult Newly empowered by the 1864 judicial reform the judiciary responded to legislative inaction by not merely adapting the law but also by promoting an ideal of the family whose values and principles challenged those underlying the autocracy Professor Wagner's detailed and scholarly analysis of these issues offers many important insights into cultural attitudes political structures and the role of law in late Imperial Russia

Contributors are Nicholas B. Breyfogle, Heather J. Coleman, Gregory L. Freeze, Nadieżda Kizenko, Alexei A. Kurbanovsky, Roy R. Robson, Bernice Glatzer Rosenthal, Gabriella Safran, Vera Shevzov, Sarah Abrevaya Stein, Mark Steinberg, Paul Valliere, William G. Wagner, Paul W. Werth, and Christine D. Worobec.

Making Women's Histories Pamela S. Nadell, Kate Haulman, 2013-01-07. Examines how women's histories are explored and explained around the world. Making Women's Histories showcases the transformations that the intellectual and political production of women's history has engendered across time and space. It considers the difference women's and gender history has made to and within national fields of study and to what extent the wider historiography has integrated this new knowledge. What are the accomplishments of women's and gender history? What are its shortcomings? What is its future? The contributors discuss their discovery of women's histories, the multiple turns the field has taken, and how place affected the course of this scholarship. Noted scholars of women's and gender history stand atop such historiographically defined vantage points as Tsarist Russia, the British Empire in Egypt and India, Qing dynasty China, and the U.S. roiling through the 1960s. From these and other peaks, they gaze out at the world around them, surveying trajectories in the creation of women's histories in recent and distant pasts and envisioning their futures.
