Annual Report of the Executive Directors for the Fiscal Year International Monetary Fund, 1990 The FSM Economy, 1997 Publications of the International Monetary Fund International Monetary Fund, 1996-11 Federated States of Micronesia International Monetary Fund. Asia and Pacific Dept, 2015-05-15 This 2015 Article IV Consultation highlights that Micronesia's economy is stagnating as externally funded infrastructure projects are moving slowly Difficulties in the business climate in particular those related to land tenure issues continue to hold back private sector development Real GDP growth of about 0.1 percent is estimated for the fiscal year 2014 The Micronesian economy is projected to grow at 0.6 percent in the medium term while risks on the outlook are tilted to the downside Growth in 2015 is projected to remain subdued at 0.3 percent while consumer prices are projected to further decline to negative 1.0 percent thanks to the continued pass through of low oil prices The International Monetary Fund Elisabeth P. McLellan, 2002 The International Monetary Fund IMF is the institution designed to support global trade and economic growth by helping to maintain stability in the international financial system Originally created to finance short term balance of payments deficits during the Bretton Woods Era of gold dollar fixed exchange rates 1944-1971 in the current world where flexible exchange rates dominate in the industrial economics it has focused on developing countries where ever larger financial crises have erupted The book provides a basic understanding of its mission and operations and how they may have evolved A comprehensive bibliography is included with easy access by subject author and title indexes

Secured Transactions Law in Asia Louise Gullifer, Dora Neo, 2021-03-25 This collection of essays offers a unique insight and overview of the secured transactions law in many of the most important countries in Asia as well as reflections on the need for benefits of and challenges for reform in this area of the law The book provides a mixture of general reflections on the history successes and challenges of secured transaction law reform and critical discussion of the law in a number of Asian countries In some of the countries the law has already been reformed or reform is under way and here the reforms are considered critically with recommendations for future work In other countries the law is not yet reformed and the existing law is analysed so as to determine what reform is desirable and whether it is likely to take place First this book will enable those engaging with the law in Asia to understand better the contours of the law in both civil and common law jurisdictions Second it provides analytical insights into why secured transactions law reform happens or does not happen the different methods by which reform takes place the benefits of reform and the difficulties that need to be overcome for successful reform Third it discusses the need for reform where none has yet taken place and critically assesses the reforms which have already been enacted or are being considered In addition to providing a forum for discussion in relation to the countries in question this book is also a timely contribution to the wider debate on secured transactions law reform which is taking place around the world

Papua New Guinea International Monetary Fund, Asia and Pacific Dept, 2014-12-02 This 2014 Article IV Consultation highlights that Papua New Guinea's economy is experiencing an important transition as new liquefied natural gas LNG production and exports commence With LNG production and exports now starting resource sector growth is projected to surge in 2015 but spillovers to the rest of the economy may be more limited Inflation has moderated from its peaks during the construction boom and is likely to remain reasonably low given the global outlook for commodity prices The ongoing economic transition calls for adjustment of macroeconomic policies to safeguard macrofinancial stability

Pacific Economic Monitor July 2018 Asian Development Bank, 2018-07-01 This issue highlights the economic prospects of the Pacific developing member countries Pacific DMCs and stresses the importance of improving the quality and access to basic and sustainable utilities in the Pacific DMCs Access to electricity is low in the Pacific particularly in the more remote and less developed parts of the subregion Factors contributing to this include dependence on costly fossil fuels for power generation inadequate investment in infrastructure and electricity services that may be beyond the means of poorer rural households To help address these challenges most Pacific governments are taking steps to shift toward renewable energy and ultimately meet ambitious targets under international climate change commitments Further they have made strategic investments in more efficient transmission networks and better collection and payment systems

Solomon Islands International Monetary Fund, 2008-11-14 The 2008 Article IV Consultation with Solomon Islands discusses an economic outlook that hinges critically on developing nonlogging sources of growth and exports to offset the expected decline in logging activity The country remains beset with poor infrastructure land ownership issues a shortage of skilled labor and unreliable and costly basic services Executive Directors recommended that the central bank seek to develop financial markets further and make greater use of interest rate mechanisms of monetary control To avoid placing undue burden on monetary policy fiscal policy needs to play a supportive role

Vanuatu Regional Office for the Asia and the Pacific, 2013-06-21 Vanuatu has a comparatively favorable economy and cautious macroeconomic policies that have helped maintain stability and confidence Financial sector policies also have been appropriately cautious The economy must maintain low debt in the longer term but as funding is needed for infrastructure maintenance and social services new revenue measures have to be identified This revenue could help strengthen the state while maintaining growth potential especially in the tourism and agricultural sectors The financing options for new large infrastructure projects have to be assessed
