Karl, 2017-03-02 In The Magic of Concepts Rebecca E. Karl interrogates the economic as concept and practice as it was construed historically in China in the 1930s and again in the 1980s and 1990s Separated by the Chinese Revolution and Mao's socialist experiments each era witnessed urgent discussions about how to think about economic concepts derived from capitalism in modern China Both eras were highly cosmopolitan and each faced its own global crisis in economic and historical philosophy in the 1930s capitalism's failures suggested that socialism offered a plausible solution while the abandonment of socialism five decades later provoked a rethinking of the relationship between history and the economic as social practice Interweaving a critical historiography of modern China with the work of the Marxist trained economist Wang Yanan Karl shows how magical concepts based on dehistoricized Eurocentric and capitalist conceptions of historical activity that purport to exist outside lived experiences have erased much of the critical import of China's twentieth century history In this volume Karl retrieves the economic to argue for a more nuanced and critical account of twentieth century Chinese and global historical practice China Review 1996 Maurice Brosseau, Suzanne Pepper, Shu-ki Tsang, 1996 Politics and Truth Theresa Man Ling Lee, 1997-08-28 Considers the contested concept of truth in contemporary politics in light of the postmodernist challenge to

China and Historical Capitalism Timothy Brook, Gregory Blue, 2002-09-05 This book addresses the historical relationship that has arisen between the concept of capitalism and the idea of China Formulated by European intellectuals in order to identify the social formation in which they found themselves capitalism was portrayed as unique to Europe and as an organic outgrowth of Western civilization In this way China was rejected as a model of civilization and seen merely as despotic feudal or stagnant This Eurocentric judgement has hung over all subsequent thinking about China even influencing Chinese perceptions of their own history The aim of this collaborative project is to examine how the experience of capitalism as a European social formation and as a world system has shaped knowledge of China In addition the volume aims to establish new foundations on which a theory of Chinese society might be built in order to perceive and understand Chinese development in less Eurocentric terms
