Nunneries And The Anglo Saxon Royal Houses:

Nunneries and the Anglo-Saxon Royal Houses Barbara Yorke, 2003-06-16 By the late Anglo Saxon period almost all newly founded nunneries were founded by royal patronage This detailed study which traces the histories of royal nunneries in the 7th and 8th centuries examines how they differed from other types of religious communities in terms of their organisation status special secular and ecclesiastical features and the authority and power which the abbess and other women held Barbara Yorke reveals how the royal nunneries were not only subject to the changing fortunes of the Church and state but also to the successes and failures of the royal houses that patronised them This particular group of nunneries is also compared and contrasted with the variety of other arrangements available to religious women both within and outside of convents and male religious establishments and with gender and societal norms

The Cartulary of Chatteris Abbey Chatteris Abbey, 1999 Takes its place as perhaps the finest available study of a house for women religious

ENGLISH HISTORICAL REVIEW The fifteenth century cartulary of the Benedictine nunnery of Chatteris Abbey in Cambridgeshire founded in the early eleventh century has important implications for the study of women religious especially in the light of the small number of surviving cartularies from English nunneries yet until now it has received little attention perhaps due to its damage in the Cotton Library fire of 1731 This critical edition of the manuscript which contains documents copied into it from the mid twelfth to the fifteenth centuries offers a full transcription together with historical notes and apparatus The introduction draws on the cartulary itself as well as manorial and episcopal records to analyse the nunnery's relationship with its patron the bishop of Ely and the development and management of its estates it also examines the location and layout of the abbey the social and geographical origins of the nuns and the production and organisation of the cartulary The edition is accompanied by an annotated list of all known abbesses prioresses and nuns

many of the problems of their modern counterparts in bringing up their families balancing family and work and responding to the demands of their communities Of many women in the period of a thousand years before 1500 we know little or nothing though their typical ways of life on farms or in the towns can be reconstructed with accuracy from a variety of sources We know more about a far smaller number of elite women including queens such as Eleanor of Aquitaine and Margaret of Anjou noblewomen whose characters and attitudes can be sensed directly or indirectly and a variety of religious women Literary sources help flesh out real attitudes such as those of Chaucer's Wife of Bath Jennifer Ward shows the life cycle of medieval women from birth via marriage and child rearing to widowhood and death She also brings out the slow changes in the position of women over a millennium

Monasteries and Society in the British Isles in the Later Middle Ages Janet E. Burton, Karen Stöber, 2008

New essays on the monastic life in the later middle ages show that far from being in decline it remained rich and vibrant In recent years there has been an increasing interest in the history of the numerous houses of monks canons and nuns which existed in the medieval British Isles considering them in their wider socio cultural economic context historians are now questioning some of the older assumptions about monastic life in the later Middle Ages and setting new approaches and new agenda The present volume reflects these new trends Its fifteen chapters assess diverse aspects of monastic history focusing on the wide range of contacts which existed between religious communities and the laity in the later medieval British Isles covering a range of different religious orders and houses This period has often been considered to represent a general decline of the regular life but on the contrary the essays here demonstrate that there remained a rich monastic culture which although different from that of earlier centuries remained vibrant CONTRIBUTORS KAREN STOBBER JULIE KERR EMILIA JAMROZIAK MARTIN HEALE COLMAN O CLABAIGH ANDREW ABRAM MICHAEL HICKS JANET BURTON KIMM PERKINS CURRAN JAMES CLARK GLYN COPPACK JENS ROHRKASTEN SHEILA SWEETINBURGH NICHOLAS ORME CLAIRE CROSS
