

A painting by Renoir depicting a scene on a river. In the center, a group of people, including men in suits and women in long, light-colored dresses, are gathered in a small boat. They appear to be engaged in a picnic or a leisurely boat ride. The water is filled with many other small boats, some occupied by people and others empty. The background is dominated by lush, green trees and foliage, creating a sense of a natural, outdoor setting. The overall style is characteristic of Renoir's Impressionist technique, with visible brushstrokes and a focus on light and color.

The Dialectics of Art John Molyneux,2020-08-04 To the question of what is art it is often simply responded that art is whatever is produced by the artist For John Molyneux this clearly circular answer is deeply unsatisfying In a tour de force spanning renaissance Italy and the Dutch Republic to contemporary leading figures The Dialectics of Art instead approaches its subject matter as a distinct field of creative human labour that emerges alongside and in opposition to the alienation and commodification brought about by capitalism The pieces and individuals Molyneux examines from Michelangelo's Slaves to Rembrandt's Jewish Bride to the vast drip paintings of Jackson Pollock are presented as embodying the social contradictions of their times giving art an inherently political relevance In its relationship of creative and dialectical tension to prevailing social relationships and norms such art points beyond the existing order of things hinting at a potential future society not based on alienated labour in which creative production becomes the property and practice of all     Англійська мова для вищих навчальних мистецьких закладів. Чечель Є.
