Reorganized National Health Service:

General Practice Under the National Health Service 1948-1997 Irvine Loudon, John Horder, Charles Webster, 1998 This is a history of general practice under the National Health Service covering the whole of the first 50 years from 1948 to the present
The National Health Service Charles Webster, 2002 The foundation of the National Health Service on 5 July 1948 was a momentous development in the history of the United Kingdom Issues of health care touch the lives of everyone and the NHS has come to be regarded as the cornerstone of the welfare state and as a model for state organised health care systems elsewhere Yet throughout its history the Service has existed in an atmosphere of crisis Charles Webster's political history is an entirely new and original examination of the NHS from its inception through to its management under the first term of the current Labour government providing the necessary framework for assessing its future as we enter the new millennium

Seifert, 2013-11-11 This is the first book yet written on industrial relations in the NHS and it has been completed at a time of radical and rapid change Some of the material particularly in the final chapter reflects first thoughts about the impact of the new system on industrial relations The book arose from my teaching experiences with health service practitioners from several of the NHS trade unions and professional associations Many of these activists as well as managers expressed frustration that there was no single source about some of the issues which concerned them This book is the result of their anxieties Throughout I have assumed that the main thrust of government policy towards the NHS at least since the early 1980s has been to sell off important sections of the service to the private sector There is I believe strong evidence for this proposition My argument however is based not only on the evidence of government's will to privatize but also on the behaviour of ministers senior civil servants and senior NHS managers which adds up to a set of policies and practices which together allow the point that government runs the NHS as if it was going to sell it
