Report Of The Surgeon Generals Conference On Childrens Mental Health A National Action Agenda:

Report of the Surgeon General's Conference on Children's Mental Health Department of Health and Human Services, Office of the Surgeon General, 2012-07-25 The burden of suffering experienced by children with mental health needs and their families has created a health crisis in this country Growing numbers of children are suffering needlessly because their emotional behavioral and developmental needs are not being met by those very institutions which were explicitly created to take care of them It is time that we as a Nation took seriously the task of preventing mental health problems and treating mental illnesses in youth The mental health needs of our children have elicited interest from the highest level of government including the White House and members of both the House of Representatives and the Senate This Report of the Surgeon General's Conference on Children's Mental Health A National Action Agenda represents an extraordinary level of collaboration among three major Federal Departments the Department of Health and Human Services the Department of Education and the Department of Justice This report introduces a blueprint for addressing children's mental health in the United States It reflects the culmination of a number of significant activities over the past year On March 20 2000 a White House Meeting launched a new public private effort to improve the appropriate diagnosis and treatment of children with emotional and behavioral conditions Serious concerns were raised about the appropriate diagnosis and treatment of emotional and behavioral difficulties in children and the need to take steps to address this issue On June 26 2000 the Surgeon General's Listening Session on Children's Mental Health was hosted On September 18 and 19 2000 the Surgeon General's Conference on Children's Mental Health Developing a National Action Agenda was held in Washington DC Three hundred participants were invited representing a broad cross section of mental health stakeholders including youth and family members professional organizations and associations advocacy groups faith based practitioners clinicians educators healthcare providers and members of the scientific community and the healthcare industry This conference enlisted the help of the participants in developing specific recommendations for a National Action Agenda on Children's Mental Health A related meeting on Psychopharmacology for Young Children Clinical Needs and Research Opportunities was held by the National Institute of Mental Health and the Food and Drug Administration on October 2nd and 3rd 2000 Recommendations from these two meetings formed the basis of this national action agenda One of the chief priorities in the Office of the Surgeon General and Assistant Secretary for Health has been to work to ensure that every child has an optimal chance for a healthy start in life When we think about a healthy start we often limit our focus to physical health But as clearly articulated in the Surgeon General's Report on Mental Health mental health is fundamental to overall health and well being And that is why we must ensure that our health system responds as readily to the needs of children's mental health as it does to their physical well being One way to do so is to move the country towards a community health system that balances health promotion disease prevention early detection and universal access to care That system must include a balanced research agenda including basic biomedical clinical behavioral health services school based and community based prevention and intervention research and it must include a new invigorated approach to mental health Mental healthcare is dispersed across multiple systems schools primary care the juvenile justice system child welfare and substance abuse treatment But the first system is the family and this agenda reflects the voices of youth and family The vision and goals outlined in this agenda represent an unparalleled opportunity to make a difference in the quality of life for America s children
