The BBC's management of digital media initiative Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, 2011-04-07 This report examines the management of the contract with Siemens and the BBC's in house development of the Digital Media Initiative Programme The Programme is designed to transform the way in which BBC staff create use and share video and audio material It involves the development of new technology to allow staff to manage content efficiently on their desktops in order to give greater accessibility of digital content for audiences on TV online and radio The BBC has made good progress in delivering the programme in house since it terminated its contract with Siemens It is now on course to deliver the complete technology by summer 2011 With hindsight the BBC should not have let the contract for its Digital Media Initiative to Siemens without testing the contractor against other suppliers especially as there was a high degree of innovation involved The Programme is no longer expected to deliver the overall net financial benefit of 17.9 million originally anticipated The BBC approved the Programme on the basis that it would cost 81.7 million and deliver benefits of 99.6 million but now forecasts costs of 133.6 million and benefits of 95.4 million a net cost of 38.2 million The Committee welcomes the Trust's assurance that it would now take a more challenging approach when considering procurements but are concerned with the ease with which the BBC found over 50 million in savings to make up for the losses it suffered through late delivery of the project and its own increased delivery costs This suggests the need for a more vigilant approach to value for money

Digital Media and Reporting Conflict Daniel Bennett, 2013-07-18 This book explores the impact of new forms of online reporting on the BBC's coverage of war and terrorism Informed by the views of over 100 BBC staff at all levels of the corporation Bennett captures journalists shifting attitudes towards blogs and internet sources used to cover wars and other conflicts He argues that the BBC's practices and values are fundamentally evolving in response to the challenges of immediate digital publication Ongoing challenges for journalism in the online media environment are identified maintaining impartiality in the face of calls for more open personal journalism ensuring accuracy when the power of the former audience allows news to break at speed and overcoming the limits of the scale of the BBC's news operation in order to meet the demands to present news as conversation While the focus of the book is on the BBC's coverage of war and terrorism the conclusions are more widely relevant to the evolving practice of journalism at traditional media organizations as they grapple with a revolution in publication

Schiwy,Alessandro Fornazzari,Susan Antebi,2013-10-31 This collection of essays explores the interfaces between new information technologies and their impact on contemporary culture and recent transformations in capitalist production From a transnational frame the essays investigate some of the key facets of contemporary global capitalism the ascendancy of finance capital and the increasing importance of immaterial labor understood here as a post Fordist notion of work that privileges the art of communication affect and virtuosity The contributors address these transformation by exploring their relation to new digital media YouTube MySpace digital image and video technology information networks etc and various cultural forms including the Hispanic television talk show indigenous video production documentary film in Southern California the Latin American stock market German security surveillance transnational videoconferencing and Japanese tourists use of visual images on cell phones The authors argue that the seemingly radical newness and alleged immateriality of contemporary speculative capitalism turns out to be less dramatically new and more grounded in colonial racial histories of both material and immaterial exploitation than one might at first imagine Similarly human interaction with digital media and virtuality ostensibly a double marker for the contemporary and economically privileged subject in fact reveals itself in many cases as transgressive of racial economic and historical categories

The construction of public opinion in a digital age Catherine Happer, 2024-12-10 This book presents a new conceptual model for understanding the role of the media in the construction of public knowledge belief and opinion in the context of a radically changed communications infrastructure Drawing on a series of empirical studies conducted over nearly a decade Happer deploys evidence of a disconnect between neoliberal media and the public which is rooted in a disaffection with a mainstream political culture which has failed to deliver the societal outcomes promised As people are pushed towards alternative digital sources new communities of opinion are produced in ways which polarise publics and ultimately limit the potential for social change Offering an innovative and urgently needed new sociological analysis this book is required reading for an inter disciplinary field of media journalism and politics IR which has largely abandoned questions of media power and public opinion management as well as policymakers science communicators and journalists Key points of the book 1 public opinion formation and why people may come to different positions through the development of a new model 2 the societal outcomes produced when a widespread disconnect between journalism and public opinion emerges 3 the atomisation of opinion and its relations to newly constructed opinion communities with consideration of the role of class 4 the turn to digitally available alternatives which enable new less visible power agents to exert control

Digital News and HIV Criminalization Colin Hastings, 2024-12-16 For years HIV activists and researchers have expressed deep concerns about the stigmatizing and sensational tone of news stories about HIV criminalization Digital News and HIV Criminalization investigates the everyday work of journalists and uncovers how newswork routines are hooked into other institutions including the criminal legal system police and public health that regulate the daily lives of people living with HIV This lively institutional ethnography offers key insights into how the digital news media ecosystem is socially organized It reveals that the fast paced conditions of digital news media in the age of convergence journalism require the constant rapid production of sensational news stories that will be consumed widely by online audiences often resulting in news writing that perpetuates social harms connected to stigmatizing racist and anti immigrant views The book illustrates how biased reporting on HIV criminalization reflects broader trends in online news and presents opportunities for HIV activists to form coalitions with other groups negatively affected by the current landscape of convergence journalism Tracing how work that produces and circulates a standard genre of news story about HIV criminalization is coordinated across time and space Digital News and HIV Criminalization offers a groundwork for political action aimed at disrupting the production of stigmatizing news stories
