Complex Interpersonal Conflict Behaviour Evert Van der Vliert,2013-05-24 This book is about reactions to interpersonal conflict such as avoiding negotiating and fighting It breaks away from the prevailing assumption that conflict behaviours are mutually isolated reactions having mutually isolated effects Instead reactions are viewed as components of complex conflict behaviour that influence each other s impact on the substantive and relational outcomes The simultaneous and sequential occurrence of for example problem solving and fighting should therefore be studied together and not separately The author presents a ladder of stepwise increases in theoretical quality and designs the sequence of chapters in such a way that the theoretical value increases step by step The lower steps lead to the description of behavioural components and to a model of integrative and distributive dimensions The upper steps lead to the dimensions of dual concern for one's own and the other's goals and to complexity explanations in terms of the novel paradigm of conglomerated conflict behaviour The chapters are summarised into thirty four interrelated propositions Six empirical studies demonstrate the validity of crucial propositions at each level of the theoretical framework This monograph primarily reaches out to an academic readership However due to its clear structure its comprehensive propositions its frequent use of figures and its glossary the book will also provide an invaluable resource for any student and practitioner interested in conflict management and negotiation

Interpersonal Communication Charles R. Berger, 2014-07-28 Interpersonal communication has been studied in terms of both communication functions and specialized contexts This handbook comprehensively covers the field including research on processes of social influence the role of communication in the development maintenance and decline of close personal relationships nonverbal communication cognitive approaches communication and conflict bargaining and negotiation health communication organizational socialization and supervisor subordinate communication social networks and technologically mediated interpersonal communication Two chapters are dedicated to research methods in the field The handbook includes chapters by widely recognized and respected scholars in the field
