Minding the Gap Thom Conroy, Gail Pittaway, 2015-10-13

Passengers on the British railway and underground must mind the gap because it's dangerous not to In a state of embarking or disembarking passengers must stay aware of the small but significant space separating the stationary from the moving. The contemporary practices of writing and reading are in constant motion and the phrase mind the gap captures an essential aspect of the way language and literature progress as they pass through any number of social, technical, and political exchanges. Minding the gap also suggests an awareness of the always shifting distance between the expected and the unexpected, the ordinary and the impossible, the familiar and the unimaginable. This book includes chapters on writing, non-fiction, media, and genre, and also addresses elements of identity, culture, and linguistics in fiction, poetry, and creative non-fiction, as contributors consider the gaps that exist between the self as writer, as reader, and as editor or mentor. The volume adopts the following key themes: new gaps for creative writing in the academy; writing in new genres, media, and forms; exploring the creative process and narrative strategies across disciplines. This book will be of international appeal to all readers interested in the changing landscape of creative writing.

EbscoHost Fluency and Reading Comprehension in Typical Readers and Dyslexics Readers Simone A. Capellini, Giseli D. Germano, 2018-02-22

Reading involves decoding and comprehension components, and to become efficient it requires a large number of cognitive and linguistic processes. Among those, the phonological awareness, the alphabetic principle, the decoding, the fluency, the lexical development, and the text comprehension development. The reading comprehension is strongly related with the development of vocabulary, oral language, linguistic skills, memory skills, and ability to make inferences, and the world experiences of each individual. These processes become important only when the professional needs to deal with students presenting difficulties in learning how to read. The difficulty using the knowledge of conversion rules between grapheme and phoneme to the word reading construction characterizes the dyslexia, which is a specific learning disorder with a neurological source. These difficulties presented by students with dyslexia interfere in their learning process, impairing the learning development. Knowing and following the reading development and its processes, as well as obtaining the punctuation of fluency abilities and students' comprehension, allow us to understand what happens when the student presents difficulties to read. This could help in the identification of learning disabilities and in the development of intervention programs.
