Marketing Research F. E. Brown, 1980-01-01 Marketing Research Francis Earl Brown, 1980 Building Models for Marketing Decisions Peter S.H. Leeflang, Dick R. Wittink, Michel Wedel, Philippe A. Naert, 2013-06-29 This book is about marketing models and the process of model building Our primary focus is on models that can be used by managers to support marketing decisions It has long been known that simple models usually outperform judgments in predicting outcomes in a wide variety of contexts For example models of judgments tend to provide better forecasts of the outcomes than the judgments themselves because the model eliminates the noise in judgments And since judgments never fully reflect the complexities of the many forces that influence outcomes it is easy to see why models of actual outcomes should be very attractive to marketing decision makers Thus appropriately constructed models can provide insights about structural relations between marketing variables Since models explicate the relations both the process of model building and the model that ultimately results can improve the quality of marketing decisions Managers often use rules of thumb for decisions For example a brand manager will have defined a specific set of alternative brands as the competitive set within a product category Usually this set is based on perceived similarities in brand characteristics advertising messages etc If a new marketing initiative occurs for one of the other brands the brand manager will have a strong inclination to react The reaction is partly based on the manager's desire to maintain some competitive parity in the marketing variables The Handbook of Marketing Research Rajiv Grover, Marco Vriens, 2006-06-23 The Handbook of Marketing Research comprehensively explores the approaches for delivering market insights for fact based decision making in a market oriented firm

Building Implementable Marketing Models Philippe A. Naert, Peter S.H. Leeflang, 2013-12-01 The observation that many models are built but few are used has almost become a commonplace in the management science and operations research literature Nevertheless the statement remains to a large extent true today also and perhaps even more so where marketing models are concerned This led Philippe Naert now about four years ago to write a concept text of a few hundred pages on the subject of how to build implementable marketing models that is models that can and will be used One of the readers of that early manuscript was Peter Leefiang He made suggestions leading to a more consistent ordering of the material and proposed the addition of some topics and the expansion of others to make the book more self contained This resulted in a co authorship and a revised version which was written by Peter Leefiang and consisted of a reshuffling and an expansion of the original material by about fifty per cent Several meetings between the co authors produced further refinements in the text and the sequence of chapters and sections after which Philippe Naert again totally reworked the whole text This led to a new expansion again by fifty per cent of the second iteration The third iteration also required the inclusion of a great deal of new literature indicating that the field is making fast progress and that implementation has become a major concern to marketing model builders EBOOK: Principles and Practice of Marketing
