Marriage Problems in Africa Ani Dike Egwuonwu, 1986      Challenges of Christian Marriage in African Culture
Sylvester Oyeka, 2015-08-03 The book Challenges of Christian Marriage in African Culture is a reflection of Fr Sylvester on the challenges encountered by Christian marriage in a communitarian African culture of kinship. While Christian marriage is a free decision of the couple involved, African marriage is a communitarian task and thus the decision of the community must take precedence. The contrast between Christian marriage and African marriage becomes a challenge to the Christian ideology of marriage. However, this book aims at a reconciliation between these marriages where the moral values found in either marriage could be adopted for a sustainable marriage.

Recognising Customary Marriage in Africa and Civil Marriage Everywhere Michael McGuckian S.J., 2021-05-04 Millions of Catholics in Africa are excommunicated because they get married according to their local customs. That is an absurd and scandalous situation and this book sets out to correct it. The problem is found to rest on three mistakes made down the centuries in the Canon Law: There was the introduction of the Pauline Privilege in the twelfth century; Then the introduction of the canonical form of marriage at the Council of Trent; Then the condemnation of civil marriage in the nineteenth century. When these mistakes are corrected, the solution to the problem is easy. The three mistakes are based on theological errors and alternative positions are presented here. As well as solving the problem of customary marriages, it also solves the problems around mixed marriages between Catholics and Protestants and the anomalous double marriages, civil and religious, in continental Europe.

Race Problems in the New Africa William Charles Willoughby, 1923 Part I gives a popular account of the various races which inhabit Africa, showing their distribution over the continent and their relation to one another. The aim of this part of the book is to show the Bantu in their racial and geographical setting. Part II contains five chapters concerning those phases of Bantu life which matter most to one who would get at the real inwardness of these people: the magic that sways their thought; the ancestor worship that appeals to what is most devout in them; the ancestral laws and institutions that provide a framework for their social relationships; the place of woman in their tribal and social relationships; the place of woman in their tribal and social system; and the Bantu method of educating youths of both sexes. Part III contains six chapters, all of which deal with the Europeanization of Bantu Africa. These chapters assume a knowledge of the subjects discussed in Part II. After showing how the White man came into Bantu Africa, an attempt is made to discuss the main problems which arise from the contact of the Black and White races and to discover how Britain ought to deal with these more primitive people.

The Bible and Gender Troubles in Africa Joachim Kügler, Rosinah Gabaitse, Johanna Stiebert, 2019-06-25 Publisher's description: Quickly changing concepts on gender roles are a pivotal issue in post-colonial African societies. Many women and men are calling for a radical change as they feel traditional gender concepts as being oppressive, inhuman, and un-Christian. Gender equality, gender fairness is on their agenda On the other hand for many men and women these societal changes are painful gender troubles and seem to be dangerous for gender based identity threatening traditional African values Volume 22 of the BiAS series deals with this central topic by asking what gender troubles have to do with the Bible Are biblical texts an obstacle for women s liberation Is the Bible a divine guaranty for male supremacy or rather an advocate for gender equality What are redemptive masculinities and how do they relate to a new truly Christian understanding of the role of women in church society and state Scholars from different disciplines and several countries are dealing with these urgent questions to help scholars students pastors politicians and members of Christian churches to find a way to more gender fairness and gender joy African Marriage and Social Change Lucy Mair,1969 First Published in 1969 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company

Building upon the author s previous work Survey of African Marriage and Family Life this title s findings are intended to produce for policy makers a picture of the forces producing changes in family relationships and the instability of marriage to which legislators civil or religious could refer when deciding what practices to treat as permissible and what to forbid For this reason it has laid more emphasis than is usual in works of theoretical anthropology on specific aspects of African marriage where it has been assumed that the divergence was most marked Africa Waiting, Or, The Problem of

Africa's Evangelization Douglas Montagu Thornton,1897 Translations on Sub-Saharan Africa United States. Joint Publications Research Service,1967 Marriage by Force? Annie Bunting,Benjamin N. Lawrance,Richard L.

Roberts,2016-06-15 With forced marriage as with so many human rights issues the sensationalized hides the mundane and oversimplified popular discourses miss the range of experiences In sub Saharan Africa the relationship between coercion and consent in marriage is a complex one that has changed over time and place rendering impossible any single interpretation or explanation The legal experts anthropologists historians and development workers contributing to Marriage by Force focus on the role that marriage plays in the mobilization of labor the accumulation of wealth and domination versus dependency They also address the crucial slippage between marriages and other forms of gendered violence bondage slavery and servile status Only by examining variations in practices from a multitude of perspectives can we properly contextualize the problem and its consequences And while early and forced marriages have been on the human rights agenda for decades there is today an unprecedented level of international attention to the issue thus making the coherent multifaceted approach of Marriage by Force even more necessary Reflections on Gender Issues in Africa Keshia Nicole Abraham,1999 Comprises a

Fragmented Families, Poverty, and Women's Reproductive Narratives in South Africa Kammila Naidoo, 2009-08-30 Fragmented Families addresses a central question in the demographic debates on poverty and fertility transition in southern Africa In what ways do women's recurrent encounters with poverty serve to shape their sexual unions social relationships and reproductive practices The book focuses on the lives of a group of mothers and daughters from fifteen families in a demarcated part of the Winterveld area in South Africa and draws attention to historical socio cultural political and economic concerns in order to place in context or make sense of reproductive dynamics and family life at the micro level Vignettes drawn from fieldwork highlight the particularities of the area the persistence of historical tensions diverse livelihoods and complex gender relationships The intergenerational stories of the women suggest that they live with immense and increasing adversity and that strategies to contend with them sometimes include attempts to assert control over sexual encounters and reproductive outcomes The book contributes to a continuing debate on how changing socio economic conditions could influence prospects for and the nature of fertility transition in African countries The study concurs with alternative arguments that shifts toward lower levels of fertility might be due in certain contexts to experiences of severe hardship rather than favourable economic circumstances Instead of seeking security and risk aversion through bearing many children the response of indigent women in this area has been largely to resist reproduction at particular stages of their lives whilst using sexual relationships and child bearing as strategies to manipulate and secure resources In reflecting on methodological approaches the book draws attention to the limitations of survey research in efforts to elicit accurate representations of reproductive behaviour and fertility preferences and emphasises the usefulness of more engaged qualitative and long term fieldwork endeavours in building substantive insights on women's familial and reproductive lives      Papers on Inter-racial Problems Gustav Spiller, 1911 This document is from Empire Online a powerful and interactive collection of primary source documents sourced from leading archives around the world This project has been developed to encourage undergraduates postgraduates academics and researchers to explore colonial history politics culture and society Material in the collection spans five centuries charting the story of the rise and fall of empires from the explorations of Columbus Captain Cook and others right through to de colonisation in the second half of the twentieth century and debates over American Imperialism
