Luther's break from the Roman Catholic Church but rather for a completion of Luther's work a fulfillment of Reformation goals a reunified truly catholic Church Atkinson argues that changes in Roman Catholic theology since the sixteenth century have brought it very nearly to the point that Luther wished it to attain and that the crucially important reforms initiated by the Second Vatican Council in 1965 indicate a new spirit of ecumenical openness to a rapprochement with the separated brethren of the Protestant denominations Such a reunification says Atkinson would be more genuinely in the spirit of Luther's work than any strident maintenance of Protestant dogma for its own sake The first part of this book offers a brief historical survey of Catholic perspectives on Luther from 1517 to the present from the early sixteenth century invective against Luther which set the tone for more than four centuries of Catholic perceptions of Luther and his legacy to the exciting revaluation of Luther in the past few decades In the second and larger portion of the book Atkinson delves more deeply into the main points of doctrinal contention between Catholics and Protestants and suggests that the gap between the two is no longer so large as to preclude its being bridged in a spirit of fellowship in faith
