Using Online Dictionaries Carolin Müller-Spitzer, 2014-08-22 Until now there has been very little research into the use of online dictionaries In contrast the market for online dictionaries is increasing both for academic lexicography and for commercial lexicography with sales figures for printed reference works in continual decline This has led to a demand for reliable empirical information on how online dictionaries are actually being used and how they could be made more user friendly The volume Using Online Dictionaries makes a substantial contribution to closing this research gap It is divided into four parts The first part contains articles on fundamental issues a research review of the empirical studies on digital dictionaries which have already been carried out and a brief methodological guideline for lexicographical researchers who are interested in conducting their own empirical research The second part contains the results of two studies that focus on general questions about the use of online dictionaries It presents empirical data on contexts of dictionary use on expectations and demands regarding online dictionaries Furthermore innovative features such as the use of multimedia elements or the option of a user adaptive interface and questions of design were assessed empirically The third part of this volume comprises more specific studies of online dictionaries an eye tracking study evaluating the new web design of the dictionary portal OWID and a log file study which tries to get to the bottom of the following question Do dictionary users look up frequent words or put differently is there a connection between how often a word is looked up and how often it appears in a corpus In the last chapter of this thematic section the question of how users judge the combination of a written paraphrase and an additional illustration in illustrated online dictionaries is addressed The last part focuses on the use of monolingual dictionaries in particular the German online dictionary elexiko In this context two online questionnaire based studies were carried out The empirical studies were conducted in the form of online surveys combining questionnaires and experimental elements and in the form of laboratory studies using eye tracking technology as well as using observational methods such as log file analyses Regarding the comprehensive research framework this volume can be relevant to lexicographers metalexicographers and linguists who are interested in the use of online dictionaries and in the development and exploration of lexicographical data for the internet as well as linguists interested in empirical methods It addresses a broad expert audience by presenting an academic subject which is currently the focus of much discussion

Cyberpl@y Brenda Danet,2020-05-28 The Internet is changing the way we communicate As a cross between letter writing and conversation email has altered traditional letter writing conventions Websites and chat rooms have made visual aspects of written communication of greater importance arguably than ever before New communication codes continue to evolve with unprecedented speed This book explores playfulness and artfulness in digital writing and communication and answers penetrating questions about this new medium Under what conditions do old letter writing norms continue to be important even in email Digital greetings are changing the way we celebrate special occasions and public holidays but will they take the place of paper postcards and greeting cards The author also looks at how new art forms such as virtual theatre ASCII art and digital folk art on IRC are flourishing and how many people collect and display digital fonts on handsome Websites or even design their own Intended as a time capsule documenting developments online in the mid to late 1990s when the Internet became a mass medium this book treats the computer as an expressive instrument fostering new forms of creativity and popular culture Que's Computer & Internet Dictionary Bryan Pfaffenberger,2002 New Frontiers of

Corpus Research ,2016-08-29 This volume presents highlights of the first ICAME conference held in the southern hemisphere in papers on new kinds of corpora for business and communications technology as well as those comprising computer mediated communication and college newspapers The latter yield lively insights into the digitized discourse of younger adults and non professional writers speech communities that have been underrepresented in the standard English corpora Other groups that are newly represented in research reported in this volume are bilingual users of English in Singapore Hong Kong and China as corpus data is brought to bear on second language speech and writing The proposed corpus of spoken Dutch profiled here will support research into its variation in different genres and contexts of use in the Netherlands and in Belgium Research on new historical corpora from C15 to C18 is also reported along with techniques for normalizing prestandardized English for computerized searching Meanwhile papers on contemporary usage show some of the continual interplay between British and American English in grammar and details of the lexicon that are important for English language teachers

Cognitive Lexicography Carolin Ostermann, 2015-07-31 English lexicography and linguistics have always shared close ties yet the potential of cognitive linguistics for lexicography has only been hesitantly acknowledged in the literature This is what cognitive lexicography attempts to change by using insights gained in cognitive semantic research for the development of new dictionary features After a short survey of the history and practice of English monolingual learner lexicography as well as an outline of the relationship between linguistics and lexicography three new dictionary features are developed They cover three different cognitive semantic theories as well as three different parts of the monolingual dictionary entry each time for a new set of lexemes Frame semantics conceptual metaphor theory as well as cognitive conceptions of polysemy are used to create a new example section for agentive nouns a new defining structure for emotion terms and a new microstructural arrangement for particle entries Dictionary analyses on all as well as user studies on two of the features complement these suggestions The monograph thus presents a new approach to lexicography that incorporates into its description of lexical items how humans perceive and conceptualise language
