aerothermodynamics complementary to the ground simulation facilities with the parallel enormous growth of computer power Airbreathing hypersonic flight vehicles are in contrast to aeroassisted re entry vehicles drag sensitive They have further highly integrated lift and propulsion systems This means that viscous effects like boundary layer development laminar turbulent transition to a certain degree also strong interaction phenomena are much more important for such vehicles than for re entry vehicles This holds also for the thermal state of the surface and thermal surface effects concerning viscous and thermo chemical phenomena more important for re entry vehicles at and near the wall The discrete numerical methods of aerodynamics aerothermodynamics permit now what was twenty years ago not imaginable the simulation of high speed flows past real flight vehicle configurations with thermo chemical and viscous effects the description of the latter being still handicapped by insufficient flow physics models The benefits of numerical simulation for flight vehicle design are enormous much improved aerodynamic shape definition and optimization provision of accurate and reliable aerodynamic data and highly accurate determination of thermal and mechanical loads Truly multidisciplinary design and optimization methods regarding the layout of thermal protection systems all kinds of aero servoelasticity problems of the airframe etc cetera begin now to emerge
