According to Fuller's paradigm the amount of time it takes for us to increase our collective knowledge base by 100 percent will continue to shrink the older we get. If this is true or even close to being true, how can we as educators ever feel satisfied with teaching our students the same concepts using the same methodologies and practices that we have in the past? The book offers a road map for renewing key aspects of our practice including how we teach the writing process. Over time and frequent usage, some of our favorite teaching strategies can become rigid. Coppola gives a candid account of how her enthusiasm for the writing process as an undergraduate led her to teach writing for years as a set of pre-determined steps. Now she teaches that there are many variations of the writing process and many twists and turns along the path. One foundational strategy used is opening up her own process as a writer and her writer's notebooks to students and encouraging them to think and talk about their process with classmates. What we mean by Writing, Coppola argues, that drawing isn't an accompaniment to writing; it is writing. It's another form of composition through which students can tell stories, convey ideas, and engage readers. The book is full of visual compositions by students as well as Shawna's wonderfully simple and evocative sketches from her writer's notebook. The tools we use to teach writing: The most ubiquitous tools used to teach writing from anchor charts to graphic organizers to sentence starters, etc., tend to be teacher-centric rather than student-centric. Renew invites students into the process of constructing tools that are meaningful and helpful to them. The book includes a range of examples of tools built collaboratively with students. How we assess and evaluate student writing: Coppola draws a distinction between assessments which should be an interactive conversation with students and evaluation which is about judging and categorizing what students know and can do. Renew offers a range of examples and resources that illustrate effective feedback for student writers, including online videos of teacher-student and peer-to-peer conferences. Renew also offers ideas for how teachers can nurture their own writing lives and thus reinvigorate their instructional practice. Through rethinking, revising, and renewing their practice, teachers can not only strengthen students' skills as writers but also nurture students to become critical thinkers, problem solvers, and risk takers in the classroom and in our rapidly changing world.

Copyright Illuminated David Nimmer, 2008-01-01 For several decades now David Nimmer has maintained a steady flow of insightful, witty, and deeply informed commentary on copyright in the law journals. His well earned reputation as a major authority and theorist on copyright law is unassailable In this new volume and a companion to his very well received Copyright Sacred Text Technology and the DMCA published by Kluwer in 2003 and Nimmer once again tackles some of the thorniest issues that arise in the practice of copyright law including the following and much more and the work for hire doctrine and repeat infringers and fair use determination and substantial similarity of computer programs Although the volume collects articles originally published between 1988 and 2006 mostly in the past few years Nimmer has scrupulously updated the texts and woven them together into a unified whole What the book offers as a result is a microscopic scrutiny of the U S Copyright Act of 1976 and all its amendments with an immeasurable abundance of interpretation grounded in the author's unmatched familiarity with the law and its application This is a work that no lawyer handling copyright cases and or indeed no student or scholar of any branch of intellectual property law and will want to be without
