22 color plates A Center Gallery Publication The Later Works, 1925-1953 John Dewey, 1981 John Dewey's Experience and Nature has been considered the fullest expression of his mature philosophy since its eagerly awaited publication in 1925. Irwin Edman wrote at that time that with monumental care, detail, and completeness Professor Dewey has in this volume revealed the metaphysical heart that beats its unvarying alert tempo through all his writings whatever their explicit themes. In his introduction to this volume Sidney Hook points out that Dewey's Experience and Nature is both the most suggestive and most difficult of his writings. The meticulously edited text published here as the first volume in the series The Later Works of John Dewey 1925-1953 spans that entire period in Dewey's thought by including two important and previously unpublished documents from the book's history: Dewey's unfinished new introduction written between 1947 and 1949, edited by the late Joseph Ratner; and Dewey's unedited final draft of that introduction written the year before his death. In the intervening years Dewey realized the impossibility of making his use of the word experience understood. He wrote in his 1951 draft for a new introduction: "Were I to write or rewrite Experience and Nature today I would entitle the book Culture and Nature and the treatment of specific subject matters would be correspondingly modified. I would abandon the term experience because of my growing realization that the historical obstacles which prevented understanding of my use of experience are for all practical purposes insurmountable. I would substitute the term culture because with its meanings as now firmly established it can fully and freely carry my philosophy of experience." The Dignity of Every Human Being Kirk Niergarth, 2015-02-26 The Dignity of Every Human Being studies the vibrant New Brunswick artistic community which challenged the tyranny of the Group of Seven with socially engaged realism in the 1930s and 40s. Using extensive archival and documentary research, Kirk Niergarth follows the work of regional artists such as Jack Humphrey and Miller Brittain; writers such as P. K. Page; and crafts workers such as Kjeld and Erica Deichmann. The book charts the rise and fall of social modernism in the Maritimes and the style's deep engagement with the social and economic issues of the Great Depression and the Popular Front. Connecting local, national, and international cultural developments, Niergarth's study documents the attempts of Depression-era artists to question conventional ideas about the nature of art, the social function of artists, and the institutions of Canadian culture. The Dignity of Every Human Being records an important and previously unexplored moment in Canadian cultural history. George Santayana's Marginalia George Santayana, 2011 A selection of Santayana's notes in the margins of other authors' works that sheds light on his thought, art, and life. In his essay Imagination, George Santayana writes: "There are books in which the footnotes or the comments scrawled by some reader's hand in the margins may be more interesting than the text." Santayana himself was an inveterate maker of notes in the margins of his books, writing although neatly, never scrawling comments that illuminate, contest, or interestingly expand the author's thought. These volumes offer a selection of Santayana's marginalia transcribed from books in his personal library. These notes give the reader an unusual perspective on Santayana's life and work. He is by turns critical, often approving, seldom literary, slangy, frivolous, and even spiteful The notes show his humor his occasional outcry at a writer's folly his concern for the niceties of English prose and the placing of Greek accent marks These two volumes list alphabetically by author all the books extant that belonged to Santayana reproducing a selection of his annotations intended to be of use to the reader or student of Santayana's thought his art and his life Santayana often living in solitude spent a great deal of his time talking to and talking back to a wonderful miscellany of writers from Spinoza to Kant to J S Mill to Bertrand Russell These notes document those conversations

New Brunswick at the Crossroads Tony Tremblay, 2017-10-25 What is the relationship between literature and the society in which it incubates Are there common political social and economic factors that predominate during periods of heightened literary activity New Brunswick at the Crossroads Literary Ferment and Social Change in the East considers these questions and explores the relationships between periods of creative ferment in New Brunswick and the socio cultural conditions of those times The province's literature is ideally suited to such a study because of its bicultural character in both English and French periods of intense literary creativity occurred at different times and for different reasons What emerges is a cultural geography in New Brunswick that has existed not in isolation from the rest of Canada but often at the creative forefront of imagined alternatives in identity and citizenship At a time when cultural industries are threatened by forces that seek to negate difference and impose uniformity New Brunswick at the Crossroads provides an understanding of the intersection of cultures and social economies contributing to critical discussions about what constitutes the creative in Canadian society especially in rural non central spaces like New Brunswick

The Social and the Real: Political Art of the 1930s in the Western Hemisphere, 2006

Design; Devoted to the Decorative Arts, 1936 Aesthetics Nicolai Hartmann, 2014-11-10 The book is the first English translation of Nicolai Hartmann's final book published in 1953. It will be of value to graduate students in philosophy, scholars concerned with 20th century Continental philosophy, students of aesthetics and art history and criticism, and persons in and out of academic philosophy who wish to develop their aesthetic understanding and responsiveness to art and music. Aesthetics, Hartmann believes, centers on the phenomenon of beauty and art objectivates beauty, but beauty exists only for a prepared observer. Part One explores the act of aesthetic appreciation and its relation to the aesthetic object. It discovers phenomenologically determinable levels of apprehension. Beauty appears when an observer peers through the physical foreground of the work into the strata upon which form has been bestowed by an artist in the process of expressing some theme. The theory of the stratification of aesthetic objects is perhaps Hartmann's most original and fundamental contribution to aesthetics. He makes useful and perceptive distinctions between the levels in which beauty is given to perception by nature in the performing and the plastic arts and in literature of all kinds. Part Two develops the phenomenology of beauty in each of the fine arts. Then Hartmann explores some traditional categories of European aesthetics, most centrally those of unity of value and of truth in art. Part Three discusses the forms of aesthetic values. Hartmann contrasts aesthetic values with moral values, and this exploration culminates in an extensive phenomenological exhibition of three specific aesthetic values: the sublime, the charming, and the comic. A brief appendix, never completed by the author, contains some reflections upon the ontological implications of aesthetics. Engaged in constant dialogue with thinkers of the past, especially with Aristotle, Kant, and Hegel, Hartmann corrects and develops their insights by reference to familiar phenomena of art, especially with Shakespeare, Rembrandt, and Greek sculpture and architecture. In the course of his analysis, he considers truth in art, the true to life, and the essential truth, the value of art, and the relation of art and morality. The work stands with other great 20th century contributors to art theory and philosophical aesthetics: Heidegger, Sartre, Croce, Adorno, Ingarden, and Benjamin, among others.

The Palgrave Handbook of Image Studies Krešimir Purgar, 2021-10-01 This handbook brings together the most current and hotly debated topics in studies about images today. In the first part, the book gives readers an historical overview and basic diachronical explanation of the term image, including the ways it has been used in different periods throughout history. In the second part, the fundamental concepts that have to be mastered should one wish to enter into the emerging field of Image Studies are explained. In the third part, readers will find analysis of the most common subjects and topics pertaining to images. In the fourth part, the book explains how existing disciplines relate to Image Studies and how this new scholarly field may be constructed using both old and new approaches and insights. The fifth chapter is dedicated to contemporary thinkers and is the first time that theses of the most prominent scholars of Image Studies are critically analyzed and presented in one place.
