Representation Of History In The Fiction:

Egyptian Writers Between History and Fiction Samia Mehrez, 1994 Taking as the basis of her study the premise that the boundaries of history and literature are difficult to define and that the two disciplines represent related types of narrative discourse Samia Mehrez examines the work of three leading contemporary Egyptian writers the Nobel laureate Naguib Mahfouz Sonallah Ibrahim and Gamal al Ghitani Mehrez delves into the relationship between history and narrative literature and shows that both attempt to transform reality and life into historical structures of meaning By analyzing the works of these authors in terms of the relationship between authority and the production of narrative literature she reveals a context in which literature becomes a kind of alternative history a discourse that comments not only on the history of a place but also on the creation of a narrative on history As the author says in the Introduction The three writers whose careers and works are discussed in these chapters represent some of the most crucial contributions to the larger signifying entity that has engaged the Arab reader in many transformative ways The authors and their works provide an indispensable history of the literary field itself mapping through their own development as artistic producers the history of the context which they inhabit and in which they produce

The Representation of History in Science Fiction Video Games Lukas Bay, 2025-04-03
Master's Thesis from the year 2024 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies grade 1.3 University of Tübingen English Department language English abstract Science fiction has long served as a powerful lens through which complex social issues and historical narratives can be explored From the earliest days of the genre science fiction settings have been utilized to explore contemporary concerns The struggles and experiences of marginalized groups have frequently found expression in science fiction narratives with the African American experience being a particularly resonant and recurring motif The history of African Americans in the United States from the antebellum days of slavery through the long fight for civil rights and the ongoing struggle for equality presents a compelling and highly significant narrative This history of oppression resistance identity and the struggle for freedom naturally lends itself to analogical representation By representing these historical struggles in futuristic societies or alternate realities they can be explored from new perspectives potentially fostering greater empathy and understanding Whether the replicants in Blade Runner the Synths in Fallout 4 or the androids in Detroit Become Human the representations of these artificial humanoids include a number of analogies to African American struggles of the past Works that investigate the representation of race and history in science fiction literature and film exist but video games remain an area of research that is underrepresented in relation to their popularity and cultural relevance All three games use said representations of African American history in the context of artificial humanoids to allude to players cultural and historical knowledge and project it onto players interpretations of the non human beings The prevalence of these representations within the games narratives however differs significantly and correlates with how keenly each game is trying to convey the specific interpretation to players that treating these artificial humanoids as anything less than human is unjust Historicizing Fiction/Fictionalizing History Nishevita J. Murthy, 2014-10-16 Historicizing Fiction Fictionalizing History brings together two authors Umberto Eco and Orhan Pamuk not frequently studied in comparison By focusing on their non fictional works to present a unique study of the methods and concepts of representation Murthy uses contemporary historical novels to examine fictional depictions of reality and provides a fresh perspective on representation studies in literature Written in an accessible style and tapping into fields as varied as literary and critical theory the historical novel postmodernism and historiography Historicizing Fiction Fictionalizing History considers the ways in which reality as discourse confronts a text external reality and how this confrontation affects the autonomy of the fictional space topics that remain persistently problematic areas within literary studies Eco s The Name of the Rose and Baudolino and Pamuk s My Name is Red and Snow with their topical concerns and methods of representation promise a rewarding comparative study This book provides an early critical framework for these four works placing them within the rubric of the postmodernist historical novel as creative works that also comment on the process of literary writing through their recreation of historical pasts In this respect Historicizing Fiction Fictionalizing History promises to be an engaging read in literary criticism and historiography as well as a handy companion for Eco and Pamuk enthusiasts The Representation of History in Post-war American Fiction (1945-1980) Zygmunt Mazur, 2001 History, memory, recovery and representation in contemporary fiction by african american women writers Silvia del Pilar Castro Borrego, 1999-08-30 The Fiction of History Alexander Lyon Macfie, 2014-08-13 The Fiction of History sets out a number of themes in the relationship between history and fiction emphasising the tensions and dilemmas created in this relationship and examining how various writers have dealt with these In the first part two chapters discuss the philosophy behind the connection between fiction and history whether history is fiction and the distinction between the past and history Part two goes on to discuss the relationship between history and literature using case studies such as Virginia Woolf and Charles Dickens Part three looks at television and film as well as other media through case studies such as the film Welcome to Sarajevo and Soviet and Australian films Part four considers a particular theme that has prominence in both history and literature postcolonial studies focusing on the issues of fictions of nationhood and civilization and the historical novel in postcolonial contexts Finally the fifth section comprises two interviews with novelists Penelope Lively and Adam Thorpe and discusses the ways in which their works explore the nature of history itself Possible Worlds of Fiction and History Lubomír Doležel, 2010-04-05 With Possible Worlds of Fiction and History Lubomír Doležel reexamines the claim made first by Roland Barthes and then popularized by Hayden White that there is no fundamental distinction between fiction and history Doležel rejects this assertion and demonstrates how literary and discourse theory can help the historian to restate the difference between fiction and history He challenges scholars to reassess the postmodern viewpoint by reintroducing the idea of possible worlds Possible worlds semantics reveals that possible worlds of fiction and possible worlds of history differ in their origins cultural functions and structural and semantic features Dole el s book is the first systematic application of this idea to the theory and philosophy of history Possible Worlds of Fiction and History is the crowning work of one of literary theory s most engaged thinkers

Holocaust Representations in History Daniel H. Magilow,Lisa Silverman,2015-02-26 Holocaust Representations in History is an introduction to critical questions and debates surrounding the depiction chronicling and memorialization of the Holocaust through the historical analysis of some of the most provocative and significant works of Holocaust representation In a series of chronologically presented case studies the book introduces the major themes and issues of Holocaust representation across a variety of media and genres including film drama literature photography visual art television graphic novels and memorials The case studies presented not only include well known commercially successful and canonical works about the Holocaust such as the film Shoah and Elie Wiesel s memoir Night but also controversial examples that have drawn accusations of profaning the memory of the genocide Each work s specific historical and cultural significance is then discussed to provide further insight into the impact of one of the most devastating events of the 20th century and the continued relevance of its memory Complete with illustrations a bibliography and suggestions for further reading key terms and discussion questions this is an important book for any student keen to know more about the Holocaust and its impact

Manga and the Representation of Japanese History Roman Rosenbaum,2013 This edited collection explores how graphic art and in particular Japanese manga represent Japanese history The articles explore the representation of history in manga from disciplines that include such diverse fields as literary studies politics history cultural studies linguistics narratology and semiotics Despite this diversity of approaches all academics from these respective fields of study agree that manga pose a peculiarly contemporary appeal that transcends the limitation imposed by traditional approaches to the study and teaching of history The representation of history via manga in Japan has a long and controversial historiographical dimension Thereby manga and by extension graphic art in Japanese culture has become one of the world s most powerful modes of expressing contemporary historical verisimilitude The contributors to this volume elaborate how manga and by extension graphic art rewrites reinvents and re imagines the historicity and dialectic of bygone epochs in postwar and contemporary Japan Manga and the Representation of Japanese History will be of interest to students and scholars of Asian studies Asian history Japanese culture and society as well as art and visual culture The Representation of History in the Fiction Film Leger

Grindon,1990 The Oxford History of the Novel in English Simon Gikandi,2016-09-05 Why did the novel take such a long time to emerge in the colonial world And what cultural work did it come to perform in societies where subjects were not free and modes of social organization diverged from the European cultural centers where the novel gained its form and audience Answering these questions and more Volume 11 The Novel in Africa and the Caribbean since 1950 explores the institutions of cultural production that exerted influence in late colonialism from missionary schools and metropolitan publishers to universities and small presses How these structures provoke and respond to the literary trends and social peculiarities of Africa and the Caribbean impacts not only the writing and reading of novels in those regions but also has a transformative effect on the novel as a global phenomenon Together the volume s 32 contributing experts tell a story about the close relationship between the novel and the project of decolonization and explore the multiple ways in which novels enable readers to imagine communities beyond their own and thus made this form of literature a compelling catalyst for cultural transformation The authors show that even as the novel grows in Africa and the Caribbean as a mark of the elites mastery of European form it becomes the essential instrument for critiquing colonialism and for articulating the new horizons of cultural nationalism Within this historical context the volume examines works by authors such as Chinua Achebe Nadine Gordimer George Lamming Jamaica Kincaid V S Naipaul Zoe Wicomb J M Coetzee and many others Space, Politics, and Cultural Representation in Modern China Enhua Zhang, 2016-12-08 Regarding revolution as a spatial practice this book explores modes of spatial construction in modern China through a panoramic overview of major Chinese revolutionary events and nuanced analysis of cultural representations Examining the relationship between revolution space and culture in modern China the author takes five spatially significant revolutionary events as case studies the territorial dispute between Russia and the Qing dynasty in 1892 the Land Reform in the 1920s the Long March 1934-36 the mainland Taiwan split in 1949 and the Cultural Revolution 1966-76 and analyses how revolution constructs conceives and transforms space Using materials associated with these events including primarily literature as well as maps political treatises historiography plays film and art the book argues that in addition to redirecting the flow of Chinese history revolutionary movements operate in and on space in three main ways maintaining territorial sovereignty redefining social relations and governing an imaginary realm Arguing for reconsideration of revolution as a reorganization of space as much as time this book will appeal to students and scholars of Chinese culture society history and literature

History, Fiction, and Germany Brent Orlyn Peterson, 2005 A study of the content development and transmission of German identity during the nineteenth century as Germany s national narrative took shape in historical fiction and in both popular and academic history The German speaking inhabitants of central Europe did not automatically think of themselves as Germans not before 1871 and not always after unification In fact they spoke mutually incomprehensible dialects owed allegiance to different leaders worshiped in different churches and would not have recognized each other s customs If asked about their identity these prospective Germans might have answered Austrian Bavarian or Prussian and they could as easily have used more local labels or resorted to occupational markers For this disparate population to think of itself as German that word had to acquire content people had to learn a whole set of stories they could tell themselves and to others in answer to the question of identity History Fiction and Germany chronicles how German nationalism developed simultaneously with the historical novel and the field of history both at universities and in middlebrow reading material The book examines Germany s emerging national narrative as nineteenth century writers adapted it to their own visions and to changing circumstances These writers found and popularized the nation s heroes and heroines demonized its villains and enemies and projected the nation's hopes and dreams for the future. Author Brent O Peterson argues that it was the production and consumption of national history, the writing and reading of the nation that filled Germany with Germans. Although the task of national narration was never complete and never produced a single universally accepted version of German national identity, tales from Germans gradually shared history did more to create Germany than any statesman, general, or philosopher. History Fiction and Germany provides a valuable resource for scholars and students of German studies as well as anyone interested in history and the articulation of national identity.

African Pasts Tim Woods, 2018-09-30. African Pasts examines African literatures in English since the end of colonialism, investigating how they represent African history through the twin matrices of memory and trauma. Inextricably tied up with the historical conditions of Africa's colonisation, charting the emergence of its independence and scrutinising Africa's contemporary neo-colonial and postcolonial states as a legacy of the colonial past, African literatures are continually preoccupied with exploring modes of representation to work through their different traumatic colonial pasts. Among other issues, this book deals with literature in the era of apartheid, the post-apartheid aftermath, metafictional experiments in African fiction, gender representation in reaction to the trauma of colonialism and imprisonment narratives. African Pasts covers a wide range of African literatures and a cross section of genres: fiction, poetry, prison narratives, postcolonial theory, and embraces such well-known writers as Soyinka, Coetzee, Ngugi, and Achebe, and more recent writers such as Nuruddin Farah, Tsitsi Dangaremba, Achmat Dangor, Etienne van Heerden, Zakes Mda, Gillian Slovo, and Calixthe Beyala.

History and Cultural Memory in Neo-Victorian Fiction Kate Mitchell, 2010-07-16. A PDF version of this book is available for free in open access via the OAPEN Library platform www.oapen.org. Arguing that neo-Victorian fiction enacts and celebrates cultural memory, this book uses memory discourse to position these novels as dynamic participants in the contemporary historical imaginary.

Modernism/Postmodernism Peter Brooker, 2014-09-25. The concepts of Modernism and Postmodernism constitute the single most dominant issue of twentieth-century literature and culture and are the cause of much debate. In this influential volume, Peter Brooker presents some of the key viewpoints from a variety of major critics and sets these additionally alongside challenging arguments from Third World, Black, and Feminist perspectives. His excellent Introduction and detailed headnotes for each section and essay provide an indispensable guide to interpreting the many different opinions and prove to be valuable contributions in their own right.

Representing History, 900-1300 Robert Allan Maxwell, 2010. Brings together the disciplines of art, music, and history to explore the importance of the past to conceptions of the present in the central Middle Ages. Provided by publisher.

Making Use of History in New South African Fiction Sten Pultz Moslund, 2003. A study of the use of history as political ammunition and literature as historical counter-discourse in Mongane Serote's Gods of Our Time, Mike Nicol's The Ibis Tapestry, and Zakes Mda's Ways of Dying. Moslund shows how literary engagement with the past seeks to rupture the continuity of a strongly dichotomised epistemology and through that dissolve the inherited polarisation of society Falsification of history is exposed as constructed discourse and past simplifications of reality as sharply demarcated into homogenous self justifying categorisations of Us against Them are challenged with paradox doubt and introspection

The Fiction of Narrative Hayden White, 2010-06 For students and scholars of historiography the theory of history and literary studies Robert Doran French and comparative literature U of Rochester gathers together 23 previously uncollected essays written by theorist and historian Hayden White comparative literature Stanford U from 1957 to 2007 on his theories of historical writing and narrative Essays are organized chronologically and reveal the evolution of White's thought and its relationship to theories of the time as well as the impact on the way scholars think about historical representation the discipline of history and how historiography intersects with other areas especially literary studies They specifically address theory of tropes theory of narrative and figuralism

Imprisoned by History Martin Davies, 2009-12-04 Imprisoned by History Aspects of Historicized Life offers a controversial analysis grounded both in philosophical argument and empirical evidence of what history does in contemporary culture It endorses and extends the argument that contemporary society is in historical terms already historicized shaped by history and thus history loses sight of the world seeing it only as a reflection of its own self image By focusing on history as a way of thinking about the world as a thought style this volume delivers a major decisive thought provoking critique of a crucial aspect contemporary culture and the public sphere By illustrating the ways in which history enforces socially coercive attitudes and forms of behaviour Martin Davies argues that history is therefore in itself ideological and exists as an instrument of political power Contending that this ideological function is the normal function of professional academic history he repudiates entirely the conventional view that only biased or bad history is ideological By finding history projecting onto the world and getting reflected back at it the exacting history focused thinking and behaviour on which the discipline and the subject rely he concludes that history's very normality and objectivity are inherently compromised and that history works only in terms of its own self interest
