Critical Digital Humanities James E Dobson, 2019-03-16 Can established humanities methods coexist with computational thinking It is one of the major questions in humanities research today as scholars increasingly adopt sophisticated data science for their work James E Dobson explores the opportunities and complications faced by humanists in this new era Though the study and interpretation of texts alongside sophisticated computational tools can serve scholarship these methods cannot replace existing frameworks As Dobson shows ideas of scientific validity cannot easily nor should be adapted for humanities research because digital humanities unlike science lack a leading edge horizon charting the frontiers of inquiry Instead the methods of digital humanities require a constant rereading At the same time suspicious and critical readings of digital methodologies make it unwise for scholars to defer to computational methods Humanists must examine the tools including the assumptions that went into the codes and algorithms and questions surrounding their own use of digital technology in research Insightful and forward thinking Critical Digital Humanities lays out a new path of humanistic inquiry that merges critical theory and computational science Index of Conference Proceedings British Library.
