

An aerial photograph of a river winding through a lush, green landscape. The river is illuminated by the warm, golden light of a sunset or sunrise, creating a bright path through the darker green forest. The surrounding land is covered in dense vegetation, with some areas appearing more open and brownish, possibly due to the lighting or the type of vegetation. The sky is a mix of orange and blue, with some clouds visible near the horizon.

debris up and down the mountain made the Mount St Helens landscape unique But I still remember my surprise when as I stepped out of the helicopter on rst landing within the extensive devastated zone I saw hundreds of plants pushing their way up through the mantel of tephra Surviving organisms were stunning in their diversity abundance and the mechanisms by which they survived They persisted as whole organisms living below ground encased within late persisting snowbanks and buried in lake and stream sediments They survived as rhizomes transported along with the massive landslide that accompanied the eruption and as stems that suffered the abrasion of mud ows Mud ows oated nurse logs covered with tree seedlings and then redeposited them on the oor of a forested river terrace Millions perhaps billions of plants survived as rootstocks and rhizomes that pushed their way up through the tephra and others survived on the bases of uprooted trees
