Loss and Gain John Henry Newman,2013-03-25 This novel about a young man s intellectual and spiritual development was the first work John Henry Newman wrote after entering the Roman Catholic Church in 1845 The story describes the perplexing questions and doubts Charles Reding experiences while attending Oxford Though intending to avoid the religious controversies that are being heatedly debated at the university Reding ends up leaving the Church of England and becoming a Catholic A former Anglican clergyman who was later named a Catholic cardinal Newman wrote this autobiographical novel to illustrate his own reasons for embracing Catholicism

Loss and Gain John Henry Cardinal Newman,2017-03-16 I am just going for a turn into the meadow said Charles this is to me the best time of the year nunc formosissimus annus everything is beautiful the laburnums are out and the may There is a greater variety of trees there than in any other place I know hereabouts and the planes are so touching just now with their small multitudinous green hands half opened and there are two or three such fine dark willows stretching over the Cherwell I think some dryad inhabits them and as you wind along just over your right shoulder is the Long Walk with the Oxford buildings seen between the elms They say there are dons here who recollect when the foliage was unbroken nay when you might walk under it in hard rain and get no wet I know I got drenched there the other day Loss and gain; or, The story of a convert ... By John Henry Newman.
