Handbook of the American Novel of the Twentieth and Twenty-First Centuries Timo Müller, 2017-01-11 Increasing specialization within the discipline of English and American Studies has shifted the focus of scholarly discussion toward theoretical reflection and cultural contexts These developments have benefitted the discipline in more ways than one but they have also resulted in a certain neglect of close reading As a result students and researchers interested in such material are forced to turn to scholarship from the 1960s and 1970s much of which relies on dated methodological and ideological presuppositions The handbook aims to fill this gap by providing new readings of texts that figure prominently in the literature classroom and in scholarly debate from James's The Ambassadors to McCarthy's The Road These readings do not revert naively to a time before theory. Instead they distil the insights of literary and cultural theory into concise introductions to the historical background, the themes, the formal strategies and the reception of influential literary texts and they do so in a jargon-free language accessible to readers on all levels of qualification. Book Lust Nancy

Pearl, 2009-09-29 What to read next is every book lover's greatest dilemma. Nancy Pearl comes to the rescue with this wide-ranging and fun guide to the best reading new and old. Pearl, who inspired legions of literateurs with What If All the City Read the Same Book, has devised reading lists that cater to every mood, occasion and personality. These annotated lists cover such topics as mother-daughter relationships, science for nonscientists, mysteries of all stripes, African American fiction from a female point of view, must-reads for kids, books on bicycling, chick lit and many more. Pearl's enthusiasm and taste shine throughout. Covert Capital Andrew Friedman, 2013-08-02

The capital of the U.S. Empire after World War II was not a city. It was an American suburb. In this innovative and timely history, Andrew Friedman chronicles how the CIA and other national security institutions created a U.S. imperial home front in the suburbs of Northern Virginia. In this covert capital, the suburban landscape provided a cover for the workings of U.S. imperial power, which shaped domestic suburban life. The Pentagon and the CIA built two of the largest office buildings in the country there during and after the war, that anchored a new imperial culture and social world. As the U.S. expanded its power abroad by developing roads, embassies and villages, its subjects also arrived in the covert capital as real estate agents, homeowners, builders and landscapers who constructed spaces and living monuments that both nurtured and critiqued postwar U.S. foreign policy. Tracing the relationships among American agents and the migrants from Vietnam, El Salvador, Iran and elsewhere who settled in the southwestern suburbs of D.C., Friedman tells the story of a place that recasts ideas about U.S. immigration, citizenship, nationalism, global interconnection and ethical responsibility from the post-WW2 period to the present. Opening a new window onto the intertwined history of the American suburbs and U.S. foreign policy, Covert Capital will also give readers a broad interdisciplinary and often surprising understanding of how U.S. domestic and global histories intersect in many contexts and at many scales. American Crossroads 37 Climate Change and the Contemporary Novel Adeline Johns-Putra, 2019-03-21

Analysing how contemporary fiction explores climate change, Johns-Putra argues that literature can help us understand our obligations to the future. Novels George McDonald, 1927 A Road Course in Early American Literature Thomas Hallock, 2021-02-23 A Road Course in Early American Literature: Travel and Teaching from Atzl n to Amherst explores a two-part question: what does travel teach us about literature and how can reading guide us to a deeper understanding of place and identity? Thomas Hallock charts a teacher's journey to answering these questions, framing personal experiences around the continued need for a survey course covering early American literature up to the mid-nineteenth century. Hallock approaches literary study from the overlapping perspectives of pedagogue, scholar, unrepentant tourist, husband, father, friend and son. Building on Ralph Waldo Emerson's premise that there is creative reading as well as creative writing, Hallock turns to the vibrant and accessible tradition of American travel writing employing the form of biblio memoir to bridge the impasse between public and academic discourse and reintroduce the dynamic field of early American literature to wider audiences Hallock's own road course begins and ends at the Lowcountry of Georgia and South Carolina following a circular structure of reflection He weaves his journey through a wide swath of American literatures and authors from Native American and African American oral traditions to Wheatley and Equiano through Emerson Poe and Dickinson among others A series of longer place oriented narratives explore familiar and lesser known literary works from the sixteenth century invasion of Florida through the Mexican War of 1846 1848 and the American Civil War Shorter chapters bridge the book's central themes the mapping of cognitive and physical space our personal stake in reading the tensions that follow earlier acts of erasure and the impossibility of ever fully shutting out the past Exploring complex cultural histories and contemporary landscapes filled with ghosts and new voices this volume draws inspiration from a tradition of travel place oriented and literature based works ranging from William Carlos Williams's In the American Grain and Jack Kerouac's On the Road to Alice Walker's In Search of Our Mother's Gardens Wendy Lesser's Why I Read The Serious Pleasure of Books and Rebecca Mead's My Life in Middlemarch An accompanying bibliographic essay is periodically updated and available at Hallock's website www.roadcourse.us

Another Jesus, a Different Spirit, a Different Gospel Steven H. Propp, 2011-12-13 Its the Christmas season the most wonderful time of the year for most people in River City California But for Jehovahs Witnesses Lawrence and Brad its a time for them to try to explain the truth about this holiday season to the people of the community Their earnest efforts may earn them ridicule disagreement or a door slammed rudely in their faces but they persist and are sometimes able to find a mind and heart receptive to their urgent message about Jehovahs coming Kingdom Whereas for Elders Skousen and Marshall two Latter day Saint Mormon missionaries the season is another opportunity to share their Churchs distinctive interpretation of the Christian gospel but their efforts are often rebuffed as well In the course of their work these two pairs of men engage in dialogue with traditional Christians as well as members of the Church of Christ the Community of Christ RLDS Seventh day Adventists and Oneness Pentecostals not to mention skeptics atheists and the increasing numbers of people who lack any particular religious beliefs But when a local church brings in a researcher to give a series of lectures on Cults and specifically targeting the Jehovahs Witnesses and Mormons a confrontation is ensured where theological and biblical concepts collide in a public forum Who if anyone really has the Truth Can one still discover the true meaning of Christmas in the midst of passionate disagreements over the validity of the holiday season Are objections raised about the secularization and rampant commercialism of the modern celebration valid Spend a holiday season or any other season with some interesting and intellectually stimulating characters as they explore these and other challenging questions Readers of the authors earlier novel A Multicultural Christmas will be pleased to see a brief reappearance of two characters from that book analysis and cultural geography to investigate Ernest Hemingway's sophisticated construction of physical environments. In doing so, Laura Gruber Godfrey revises conventional approaches to Hemingway's literary landscapes and provides insight about his fictional characters and his readers alike. Life Stories Maureen O'Connor, 2011-08-23. Memoirs, autobiographies, and diaries represent the most personal and most intimate of genres, as well as one of the most abundant and popular. Gain new understanding and better serve your readers with this detailed genre guide to nearly 700 titles that also includes notes on more than 2,800 read-alike and other related titles. The popularity of this body of literature has grown in recent years, and it has also diversified in terms of the types of stories being told and persons telling them. In the past, readers' advisors have depended on access by names or Dewey classifications and subjects to help readers find autobiographies they will enjoy. This guide offers an alternative, organizing the literature according to popular genres, subgenres, and themes that reflect common reading interests. Describing titles that range from travel and adventure classics and celebrity autobiographies to foodie memoirs and environmental reads, Life Stories: A Guide to Reading Interests in Memoirs, Autobiographies, and Diaries presents a unique overview of the genre that specifically addresses the needs of readers' advisors and others who work with readers in finding books.

The Evolving Project of Cormac McCarthy Jonathan Elmore, Rick Elmore, 2024-12-11. The Evolving Project of Cormac McCarthy presents eleven essays of original scholarship that undertake a programmatic reassessment of McCarthy's literary and philosophical worldview. Examining issues of race, morality, history, metaphysics, law, economics, and ecology in McCarthy's writing reveals how these themes intersect in an overarching, positive gesture that characterizes his work. Taken together, the essays offer a more expansive understanding of McCarthy's critique of contemporary society while providing new clarity on his vision of alternate ways of living and community beyond their present, life-denying manifestations.

The Art of the Reprint Rosalind Parry, 2023-03-30. A genuinely original work, The Art of the Reprint establishes the reprint as a vital area of study. In tightly curated encounters between extraordinary twentieth-century artists and beloved nineteenth-century novels, Clare Leighton travels to Dorset to minutely observe Thomas Hardy's landscape for A Return of the Native (1878); Rockwell Kent channels his many sea journeys into a 1930 Moby-Dick; Fritz Eichenberg transposes the churn and isolation of fleeing Nazi Germany onto Expressionistic engravings for Charlotte Brontë's Jane Eyre (1847); and Joan Hassall elucidates a bright social world at miniature scale for a 1975 set of The Complete Novels of Jane Austen (1787-1817). Mediators between text and book, and author and reader, these artists interpreted these novels and then illustrated their interpretations stunningly and strangely in wood, ink, and paper for everyday readers.
