Rediscovering the World Benjamin Hennig, 2012-12-14 We need new maps is the central claim made in this book In a world increasingly influenced by human action and interaction we still rely heavily on mapping techniques that were invented to discover unknown places and explore our physical environment Although the traditional concept of a map is currently being revived in digital environments the underlying mapping approaches are not capable of making the complexity of human environment relationships fully comprehensible Starting from how people can be put on the map in new ways this book outlines the development of a novel technique that stretches a map according to quantitative data such as population The new maps are called gridded cartograms as the method is based on a grid onto which a density equalising cartogram technique is applied The underlying grid ensures the preservation of an accurate geographic reference to the real world It allows the gridded cartograms to be used as basemaps onto which other information can be mapped This applies to any geographic information from the human and physical environment As demonstrated through the examples presented in this book the new maps are not limited to showing population as a defining element for the transformation but can show any quantitative geospatial data such as wealth rainfall or even the environmental conditions of the oceans The new maps also work at various scales from a global perspective down to the scale of urban environments The gridded cartogram technique is proposed as a new global and local map projection that is a viable and versatile alternative to other conventional map projections The maps based on this technique open up a wide range of potential new applications to rediscover the diverse geographies of the world They have the potential to allow us to gain new perspectives through detailed cartographic depictions National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1972 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 The Romanians and the Turkic Nomads North of the Danube Delta from the Tenth to the Mid-Thirteenth Century Victor Spinei, 2009 The author of the present volume aims to investigate the relationships between Romanians and nomadic Turkic groups Pechenegs Uzges Cumans in the southern half of Moldavia north of the Danube Delta between the tenth century and the great Mongol invasion of 1241 1242 The Carpathian Danubian area particularly favoured the development of sedentary life throughout the millennia but at various times nomadic pastoralists of the steppes also found this area favourable to their own way of life Due to the basic features of its landscape the above mentioned area which includes a vast plain became the main political stage of the Romanian ethnic space a stage on which local communities had to cope with the pressures of successive intrusions of nomadic Turks attracted by the rich pastures north of the Lower Danube Contacts of the Romanians and of the Turkic nomads with Byzantium Kievan Rus Bulgaria and Hungary are also investigated The conclusions of the volume are based on an analysis of both written sources narrative diplomatic cartographic and archaeological finds Territory, the State and Urban Politics Andrew Wood,2016-03-09 Following its rise to prominence in the 1990s work on territory the state and urban politics continues to be a vibrant and dynamic area of academic concern Focusing heavily on the work of one key influential figure in the development of the field Kevin R Cox this volume draws together a collection of prominent and well established scholars to reflect on the development and state of the field and to establish a research agenda for future work David Harvey's Geography (RLE Social & Cultural Geography) John L. Paterson,2014-01-23 The emphasis of this book is to explore two major philosophical influences in contemporary human geography namely logical positivism and Marxism and to explore the relationships between philosophy methodology and geographical research Rather than being a biography of David Harvey the book contributes to the understanding of one of the most innovative and iconoclastic scholars in contemporary Anglo American human geography
