Education for Liberation Joe M. Richardson, Maxine D. Jones, 2015-09-30 Education for Liberation completes the study Dr Richardson published in 1986 as Christian Reconstruction The American Missionary Association and Southern Blacks 1861 1890 by continuing the account of the American Missionary Association AMA from the end of Reconstruction to the post World War II era Even after the optimism of Reconstruction was shattered by violence fraud and intimidation and the white South relegated African Americans to segregated and disfranchised second class citizenship the AMA never abandoned its claim that blacks were equal in God s sight that any backwardness was the result of circumstance rather than inherent inferiority and that blacks could and should become equal citizens with other Americans The organization went farther in recognition of black ability humanity and aspirations than much of 19th and 20th century white America by publicly and consistently opposing lynching segregation disfranchisement and discrimination The AMA regarded education as the means to full citizenship for African Americans and supported scores of elementary and secondary schools and several colleges at a time when private schooling offered almost the only chance for black youth to advance beyond the elementary grades Such AMA schools with their interracial faculties and advocacy for basic civil rights for black citizens were a constant challenge to southern racial norms and trained thousands of leaders in all areas of black life Local People John Dittmer,1994 Traces the monumental battle waged by civil rights organizations and by local people to establish basic human rights for all citizens of Mississippi John U. Monro Toni-Lee Capossela,2012-12-17 In 1967 John U Monro dean of the college at Harvard left his twenty year administrative career at that prestigious university for a teaching position at Miles College an unaccredited historically black college on the outskirts of Birmingham Alabama This unconventional move was a natural continuation of Monro s life long commitment to equal opportunity in education A champion of the underprivileged Monro embodied both the virtues of the Greatest Generation and the idealism of the civil rights era His teaching career spanned more than four decades and as biographer Toni Lee Capossela demonstrates his influence reached well beyond his lifetime In addition to being a talented administrator Monro was a World War II veteran a crusading journalist a civil rights proponent and a spokesman for the fledgling Peace Corps His dedication to social justice outlasted the fervor of the 1960s and fueled bold initiatives in higher education While at Harvard he developed a financial aid formula that became the national template for needs based scholarships and earned him the title The Father of Modern Financial Aid During his decade at Miles College he spearheaded a satellite freshman program in the economically depressed Greene County then went on to help design a literacy program a senior research requirement and a writing across the curriculum program at Tougaloo College When hearing and memory loss drove him from the classroom he moved his base of operations to Tougaloo s Writing Center working with students in a collaborative relationship that suited his personality and teaching style Only in 1996 after struggling with the symptoms of Alzheimer s for several years did he retire with great reluctance John U Monro Uncommon Educator is a tribute to this passionate teacher and an affirmation of how one person can inspire many to initiate positive and lasting change History of Higher Education Annual: 2003-2004 Roger L. Geiger,2011-12-31 History of Higher Education Annual Volume 23 provides insight into the struggle for civil rights and desegregation of Southern higher education illuminating how this conflict affected private historically black colleges and white denominational colleges while interpreting the dynamics of segregation and desegregation in South Carolina Other contributions examine town gown relations for Harvard students in the eighteenth century and the challenge of creating an urban public university in Chicago Review essays examine the demographic and cultural transformation of British higher education and the curious phenomenon of historical encyclopedias of individual colleges and universities History of Higher Education Annual will be of interest to historians sociologists educational policymakers as well as those concerned with the future of higher education in the United States and throughout the world Roger L Geiger is Distinguished Professor of Higher Education at the Pennsylvania State University He has edited the History of Higher Education Annual since 1993 His two volumes Research and Relevant Knowledge and To Advance Knowledge both published by Transaction cover the history of universities in the United States during the twentieth century Resources in Education ,1980 Church People in the Struggle James F.

Findlay,1993 In the 1960s the mainstream Protestant churches responded to an urgent need by becoming deeply involved with the national black community in its struggle for racial justice The National Council of Churches NCC as the principal ecumenical organization of the national Protestant religious establishment initiated an active new role by establishing a Commission on Religion and Race in 1963 Focusing primarily on the efforts of the NCC this is the first study by an historian to examine the relationship of the predominantly white mainstream Protestant Churches to the Civil Rights movement Drawing on hitherto little used and unknown archival resources and extensive interviews with participants Findlay documents the churches committed involvement in the March on Washington in 1963 the massive lobbying effort to secure passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 their powerful support of the struggle to end legal segregation in Mississippi and their efforts to respond to the Black Manifesto and the rise of black militancy before and during 1969 Findlay chronicles initial successes then growing frustration as the events of the 1960s unfolded and the national liberal coalition of which the churches were a part disintegrated While never losing sight of the central indispensable role of the African American community Findlay s study for the first time makes clear the highly significant contribution made by liberal religious groups in the turbulent exciting moving and historic decade of the 1960s The Journal of Mississippi History ,1980 Includes section Book reviews

Mississippi's Black Cotton John Obee,MacArthur Cotton,2025-05-01 The literature of the civil rights movement is replete with stories about the major actors in the movement including for example Martin Luther King but there is little focus on the MacArthur Cottons of the era the young Black men and women who at great risk to their physical and mental health chose to become involved in the movement when so many others chose not to Without these young Black people there would have been no movement and what was accomplished with the Civil Rights Acts of the 1960s would never have happened This was particularly true in Mississippi the most repressive of all fifty states and one that had sponsored state terrorism to ensure that white supremacy reigned supreme Despite having no real reason to believe that change could happen MacArthur Cotton and those like him believed that they had to act In MacArthur s case his actions were in the tradition of his activist family and he relates his involvement with many of the important figures in the Mississippi movement such as Medgar Evers and Fannie Lou Hamer Importantly he also honors others like him who are largely unknown to history such as the Greenes and McGees in Greenwood who were waging their own war against their oppressive state While having been imprisoned many times and having lived in a constant state of terror Cotton persisted as a foot soldier in a war and as with all veterans of wars was left with emotional and psychological scars Despite the toll that it took on him as a person however he remains a committed activist to this day Contemporary Authors Scot Peacock, Terrie M.

the author of Lies My Teacher Told Me James W Loewen who holds the distinction of being the best selling living sociologist today Rivers are good metaphors for life and paddling for living In this little book Loewen skillfully makes these connections without sermonizing resulting in nuggets of wisdom about how to live how to act meaningfully and perhaps how to die Loewen also returns to his life s work and gently addresses the origins of racism and inequality the theory of history and the ties between the two But mostly as in his life he finds rueful humor in every canoeing debacle and he has had many
