The Well at the World's End A. J. Mackinnon, 2014-04-23 This is a wonderful book, warm, humorous, and entertaining. Bookseller Publisher When A J Mackinnon quits his job in Australia, he knows only that he longs to travel to the Well at the World's End, a mysterious pool on a remote Scottish island whose waters legend has it hold the secret to eternal youth. Determined not to fly, it would feel like cheating, he sets out with a rucksack, some fireworks, and a map of the world and trusts chance to take care of the rest. By land and by sea, by train, truck, horse, and yacht, he makes his way across the globe and through a series of hilarious adventures. He survives a bus crash in Australia, marries a princess in Laos, is attacked by Komodo dragons, and does time in a Chinese jail. The next lift or the next near miss is always just a happy accident away. This is the astonishing true story of a remarkable voyage, an old-fashioned quest by a modern-day adventurer. One of the most enjoyable books I have ever read, a marvellous read by a travel writer with a unique style. The Canberra Times. A J Mackinnon is the author of The Unlikely Voyage of Jack de Crow and The Well at the World's End. He was born in Australia in 1963 and he spent his childhood between England and Australia, travelling as a small boy with his family on the last P O liners to sail between the two countries. His interests include painting, philosophy, writing, conjuring, and home-made fireworks.

Wonders of the Air Tamra Andrews, 2004-11-30 This second book in a four-book series exploring the elements, Wonders of Nature, Natural Phenomena in Science and Myth, looks at the wonder of air from both a scientific and mythical perspective. Intended for teachers and librarians to use with students in intermediate and middle school grades, the book looks at natural phenomena that occurs in the air around us, such as rainbows, snow, tornadoes, lightning, and thunder, through ancient myth and details the explanations of modern-day science. With this interdisciplinary approach, students will be encouraged to appreciate the magic in both myth and science and to understand the commonality of human experience with nature over time. Each book contains eight myths, each from a different culture, and accompanying scientific explanation to use with students. Included are bibliographies, recommended Web sites, ideas for field trips, student projects, discussion, and activities, and illustrations and diagrams that will enhance student interest. Grades 4-8.

DPT Derek Peter Thornton, From sane to insanity and nicely back. DPT is at times shocking and sordid and at times carefree and light. This ultimate fantastical memoir is unconventional and complex and buffets you compellingly through the gamut of emotions. Adult themes. She was right there, right in his mind. He only saw the rush of thoughts as they took him to that place of defence and picking up anything he could get his hands on to use as a weapon. He charged about the apartment, looking, seeking, trying to find the devil, the devil which was there, which stood and could see their every move. He challenged the void.
