General James Doolittle RAF Handbook 1939-1945 David Wragg, 2007-01-18 It opens with a brief history of the service followed by a chapter that reviews its situation on the outbreak of war. The chapters that follow look at the structure of the RAF from the Air Ministry and Chief of the Air Staff down to squadron level to include each of the Commands including Transport Command a creation of the war years. The main battles or campaigns in which the service was involved are also described World War II Alan Warren, 2016-08-12 In the First World War many battles on the Western Front had lasted weeks or months. All too often they degenerated into glacial and indecisive campaigns of attrition. By the 1930s however military science had recreated the possibility of a decisive battle. An unprecedented rate of technological change meant that a stream of new inventions were readily at hand for military innovators to exploit. Aircraft, armoured vehicles and new forms of motorised transport became available to make possible a fresh style of offensive warfare when the next European war began in 1939. A belief in the importance of effective war fighting was vital to the Nazi vision of Germany's future. Nazi Germany's political and military leaders aimed for rapid and decisive victory in battle. From 1939-45 new ideologies and new machines of war carried destruction across the globe. Alan Warren chronicles the sixteen most decisive battles of the Second World War from the Blitzkrieg of Poland to the fall of Berlin World War II Battle by Battle Nikolai Bogdanovic, 2019-03-21 A highly illustrated introduction to some of World War II's most famous and important battles featuring colourful artwork throughout. This book revives the historiography by analysing the air operations during the evacuation. Raffal draws from German and English sources many for the first time in the context of Operation DYNAMO to argue that both sides suffered a defeat over Dunkirk. This work examines the resources and tactics of both sides during DYNAMO and challenges the traditional view that the Luftwaffe held the advantage. The success that the Luftwaffe achieved during DYNAMO including halting daylight evacuations on 1

June is evaluated and the supporting role of RAF Bomber and Coastal Command is explored in detail for the first time Concluding that the RAF was not responsible for the Luftwaffe's failure to prevent the evacuation Raffal demonstrates that the reasons lay elsewhere
