Railroad Builders John Moody,2016-09-21 The United States as we know it today is largely the result of mechanical inventions and in particular of agricultural machinery and the railroad One transformed millions of acres of uncultivated land into fertile farms while the other furnished the transportation which carried the crops to distant markets Before these inventions appeared it is true Americans had crossed the Alleghanies reached the Mississippi Valley and had even penetrated to the Pacific coast thus in a thousand years or so the United States might conceivably have become a far reaching straggling loosely jointed Roman Empire depending entirely upon its oceans internal watercourses and imperial highways for such economic and political integrity as it might achieve But the great miracle of the nineteenth century the building of a new nation reaching more than three thousand miles from sea to sea giving sustenance to more than one hundred million free people and diffusing among them the necessities and comforts of civilization to a greater extent than the world had ever known before is explained by the development of harvesting machinery and of the railroad
