Labor and Rainfed Agriculture in West Asia and North Africa Dennis Tully,2012-12-06 The basic objective of agricultural research at ICARDA is to enhance producer and consumer welfare through increasing the productivity stability and profitability of agriculture Improved practices must be technically economically and socially suitable to farmer conditions The rainfed areas of West Asia and North Africa have highly variable environmental conditions as well as complex social and economic structures In recent years the region has been experiencing major changes in the relative availabilities and costs of the classical factors of production land labor and capital These changes have important implications for the design of new agricultural technology On the one hand the availability of labor may be an important factor determining the acceptability of new technology On the other it is important to consider the impact that technology can have on rural employment To develop a better awareness of these issues and their relevance to technology development ICARDA initiated a project on Agricultural Labor and Technological Change The first stage of the project is published here it is a review of available literature on selected issues of regional importance combined with more detailed analyses of the situations of eight countries with important rainfed agricultural sectors ICARDA greatly appreciates the financial assistance of the Ford Foundation which allowed us to support the execution of the study and publication of its findings We also appreciate the great efforts of the authors in the face of often limited data and facilities

Evolving Food Gaps in the Middle East/North Africa Nabil Khaldi,1984 Research report on food policy and projections regarding food security and food requirements in the Middle East and North Africa to the year 2000 examines trends in food production and trade since 1966 foresees increase in regional disparity between food producing countries and labour exporting and petroleum exporting countries leading to some staple food shortages Graphs statistical tables Rainfed Agriculture in the Near East and North Africa - Held in Amman, Jordan, 5-10 May 1979 - FAO Near East Regional Office and Soil Resources, Management and Conservation Service Land and Water Development Division FAO Near East Regional Office, Fao. Small Ruminants in the Near East: North Africa ,1987-01-01 Contents Sheep in Moroccco Barbary sheep Some experiences with Finn sheep in the subtropics Documentación de la FAO; Bibliografía Corriente Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. Documentation Center,1992 Water for Food Security, Nutrition and Social Justice Lyla Mehta,Theib Oweis,Claudia Ringler,Barbara Schreiner,Shiney

Varghese,2019-09-19 This book is the first comprehensive effort to bring together Water Food Security and Nutrition FSN in a way that goes beyond the traditional focus on irrigated agriculture Apart from looking at the role of water and sanitation for human well being it proposes alternative and more locally appropriate ways to address complex water management and governance challenges from the local to global levels against a backdrop of growing uncertainties The authors challenge mainstream supply oriented and neo Malthusian visions that argue for the need to increase the land area under irrigation in order to feed the world s growing population Instead they argue for a reframing of the debate concerning production processes waste food consumption and dietary patterns whilst proposing alternative strategies to improve water and land productivity putting the interests of marginalized and disenfranchized groups upfront The book highlights how accessing water for FSN can be challenging for small holders vulnerable and marginalized women and men and how water allocation systems and reform processes can negatively affect local people s informal rights The book argues for the need to improve policy coherence across water land and food and is original in making a case for strengthening the relationship between the human rights to water and food especially for marginalized women and men It will be of great interest to practitioners students and researchers working on water and food issues
