Ravishing Maidens Writing Rape In Medieval French Literature And Law:

Ravishing Maidens Kathryn Gravdal, 2010-08-03 In this study of sexual violence and rape in French medieval literature and law Kathryn Gravdal examines an array of famous works never before analyzed in connection with sexual violence Gravdal demonstrates the variety of techniques through which medieval discourse made rape acceptable sometimes through humor and aestheticization sometimes through the use of social and political themes but especially through the romanticism of rape scenes

Medieval Women and the Law Noël James Menuge, 2003 Legal records illuminate women's use of legal processes with regard to the making of wills the age of consent rights concerning marriage and children women as traders etc Determined and largely successful effort to read behind and alongside legal discourses to discover women's voices and women's feelings It adds usefully to the wider debate on women's role in medieval society

ENGLISH HISTORICAL REVIEW

What is really new here is the ways in which the authors approach the history of the law they use some decidedly non legal texts to examine legal history they bring together historical and literary sources and they debunk the view that medieval laws had little to say about women or that medieval women had little legal agency

ALBION

The legal position of the late medieval woman has been much neglected and it is this gap which the essays collected here seek to fill They explore the ways in which women of all ages and stations during the late middle ages c 1300 c 1500 could legally shift for themselves and how and where they did so Particular topics discussed include the making of wills the age of consent rights concerning marriage care custody and guardianship with particular emphasis on the rights of a mother attempting to gain custody of her own children within the court system women as traders women as criminals prostitution the rights of battered women within the courts the procedures women had to go through to gain legal redress and access rape and women within guilds

The Matter of Identity in Medieval Romance Phillipa Hardman, 2002 Twelve essays address a central concern of medieval romance the matter of identity Identity is a central concern of medieval romance Here it is approached through essays on issues of origin and parentage transformation and identity and fundamental questions of what constitutes the human The construction of knightly identity through education and testing is explored and placed in relation to female identity the significance of the motif of doubling is studied Shifting perceptions of identities are traced through the histories of specific texts and the identity of romance itself is the subject of several essays discussing ideas of genre the overlap between romance and hagiography is a theme linking a number of articles in the collection

Medieval romance is shown as a marketable commodity in the printed output of William Copland and as an opportunity for literary experimentation in the work of John Metham

The texts discussed include Chevalere Assigne Sir Gowther Sir Ysumbras Beves of Hamtoun Robert of Cisyle the Fierabras romances Breton lays Thomas's Tristan and Marie

Classen,2012-02-13 The study takes the received view among scholars that women in the Middle Ages were faced with sustained misogyny and that their voices were seldom heard in public and subjects it to a critical analysis The ten chapters deal with various aspects of the question and the voices of a variety of authors both female and male are heard The study opens with an enquiry into violence against women including in texts by male writers Hartmann von Aue Gottfried von Stra burg Wolfram von Eschenbach which indeed describe instances of violence but adopt an extremely critical stance towards them It then proceeds to show how women were able to develop an independent identity in various genres and could present themselves as authorities in the public eye Mystic texts by Hildegard of Bingen Marie de France and Margery Kempe the medieval conduct poem known as Die Winsbeckin the Devout Books of Sisters composed in convents in South West Germany but also quasi historical documents such as the memoirs of Helene Kottaner or Anna Weckerin s cookery book demonstrate that far more women were in the public gaze than had hitherto been assumed and that they possessed the self confidence to establish their positions with their intellectual and their literary achievements Medieval English Wardship in
