Reaching a New Generation Alan J. Roxburgh, 1992-12 Our world has changed dramatically in the past quarter century People are losing faith in technology Our society has lost consensus and is dividing into competing tribes Rather than simply condemning these new values Roxburgh calls the church to respond with Christian community Christian ecology and Christian spirituality This fresh and powerful book shows what our new world is like and how the gospel is yet again relevant and redemptive Planting Churches Cross-Culturally David J. Hesselgrave, 2000-05 Discusses how to plant new churches in North America and around the world by examining important sociological anthropological and historical perspectives Focuses on church planting methods selecting target areas using effective resources and measuring growth Also includes data on the sending church and the Christian mission and other related material Culture Shift David W. Guder, 1998-02-09 What would a theology of the Church look like that took seriously the fact that North America is now itself a mission field This question lies at the foundation of this volume written by an ecumenical team of six noted missiologists Lois Barrett Inagrace T Dietterich Darrell L Guder George R Hunsberger Alan J Roxburgh and Craig Van Gelder The result of a three year research project undertaken by The Gospel and Our Culture Network this book issues a firm challenge for the church to recover its missional call right here in North America while also offering the tools to help it do so The authors examine North America s secular culture and the church s loss of dominance in today s society They then present a biblically based theology that takes seriously the church s missional vocation and draw out the consequences of this theology for the structure and institutions of the church West Coast Mission Ross A. Lockhart, 2024-10-15 Vancouver British Columbia now reports no religion as its leading religious identity putting it in the vanguard of a trend happening across North America What does this mean for the Christian communities that continue to worship work and witness in this mostly secular city West Coast Mission seeks to uncover where Christianity in Vancouver is headed now that it is a minority belief system in the broader culture Drawing on a five year study of fourteen sites including church plants congregations and para church agencies Ross Lockhart describes how Christians in Vancouver are organizing their communities shaping their beliefs and expressing themselves in mission He finds that rather than simply declining Christianity in the city is adapting in response to immigration decolonization pluralism and social crises Christians are focusing on friendship and social connection in a culture that identifies as spiritual not religious on affordable housing as a missional concern on the communal value of environmental stewardship and on sharing the gospel in light of the destructive legacies of colonialism and residential schools West Coast Mission explores the evolving spectrum of religious identity in Vancouver and the significant cultural shifts taking place in how Christian mission and witness are approached in a secular city A Royal Waste of Time Marva J. Roxburgh, 2011-03-01 The burgeoning missional church movement is a sign that believers are increasingly feeling the call to impact their communities which is a good thing But says Alan J Roxburgh these conversations still prioritize church success over mission how can being missional grow my church But to focus on such questions misses the point In Missional Roxburgh calls Christians to reenter their neighborhoods and communities to discover what the Spirit is doing there to start with God's mission He then encourages readers to shape their local churches around that mission With inspiring true stories and a solid biblical base Missional is a book that will change lives and communities as its message is lived out The Road to Missional Michael Frost, 2011-10 A leading voice in the missional church recasts the missional movement from a church add on to a whole new way of following Jesus Hear the Word James A.
