Reader In Environmental Law:

A Reader in Environmental Law Bridget M. Hutter, 1999 Recent years have witnessed an increasing interest in the environment and in environmental law trends which have been reflected in academic work This reader considers a cross section of socio legal work on environmental law tracing its development over the past twenty years It includes work from a variety of disciplines theoretical perspectives and from an international scholarship It aims to give a taste of the breadth and development of socio legal approaches to one of the most important regulatory regimes in the western industrialised world the regulation of the environment The readings encompass various legal approaches to environmental protection alternatives to the law and both domestic and supra national issues They also consider broader themes such as the interaction of law and science and the effects of criminalizing environmental offences and indicate areas which future research could usefully address

Law and the Environment Robert V. Percival, Dorothy C. Alevizatos, 1997 Law and the Environment A Multi disciplinary Reader brings together for the first time some of the most important original work on environmental policy by scientists ecologists philosophers historians economists and legal scholars Each of the book s four parts provides a different focus on the nature and scope of environmental problems and attempts to use public policy to address these concerns Part I examines how ecology economics and ethics analyze environmental problems and why they support collective action to respond to them Part II examines the history and present state of environmental law from early attempts to engage the government to the current debate over the effectiveness of environmental policy Part III explores the process by which environmental law gets translated into regulatory policy Part IV considers the future of environmental law at a time when international environmental concerns have become a major force in global diplomacy and international trade agreements In drawing together a wide variety of perspectives on these issues Robert V Percival and Dorothy C Alevizatos offer a comprehensive examination of how society has responded to the difficult challenges posed by environmental problems The selections provide a rich introduction to the complexities of environmental policy disputes Author note Robert V Percival is Professor of Law Robert Stanton Scholar and Director of the Environmental Law Program of the University of Maryland School of Law He is the principal author of Environmental Regulation Law Science and Policy and numerous articles on law and the environment P Dorothy C Alevizatos is an environmental lawyer with a Baltimore law firm She has an M S in conservation biology from the University of Maryland
