Handbook of Children's Literacy Terezinha

Nunes, Peter Bryant, 2013-03-09 PETER BRYANT TEREZINHA NUNES The time that it takes children to learn to read varies greatly between different orthographies as the chapter by Sprenger Charolles clearly shows and so do the difficulties that they encounter in learning about their own orthography Nevertheless most people who have the chance to learn to read do in the end read well enough even though a large number experience some significant difficulties on the way Most of them eventually become reasonably efficient spellers too even though they go on make spelling mistakes at any rate if they are English speakers for the rest of their lives So the majority of humans plainly does have intellectual resources that are needed for reading and writing but it does not always find these resources easy to marshal What are these resources Do any of them have to be acquired Do different orthographies make quite different demands on the intellect Do people differ significantly from each other in the strength and accessibility of these resources If they do are these differences an important factor in determining children's success in learning to read and write These are the main questions that the different chapters in this section on Basic Processes set out to answer

Equity and Quality Dimensions in Educational Effectiveness Leonidas Kyriakides, Bert Creemers, Evi Charalambous, 2018-01-03 This book aims to make a contribution to the theory research and practice on quality and equity in education by providing a comprehensive overview of these two dimensions of educational effectiveness and proposing a methodological instrument that may be used to measure the contribution that each school can make to promoting equity The importance of using this instrument is demonstrated by analysing results of various effectiveness studies conducted over the last decade The book draws upon research across the world especially research conducted in the Europe the United States and Australasia It is shown that promoting equity has no negative effect on the promotion of quality The importance of using this methodological instrument to identify factors that promote both quality and equity at different educational levels i e teacher school and educational system is stressed The book also demonstrates how we can measure stability and changes in the effectiveness status of schools over time in terms of fostering quality and equity In addition it underlines the importance of identifying factors measuring changes in the effectiveness status of schools in terms of equity and points to the alternative strategies that can be used at school and system level In our attempt to encourage the further development and use of this methodology for school improvement purposes we demonstrate how experimental studies can be conducted to discover whether and under which conditions the proposed methodology can help schools promote both quality and equity Finally implications for school evaluation research educational policy and practice are drawn In this way the book contributes significantly to the debate on how quality and equity can be achieved and encourages policy makers and practitioners not to view these two dimensions of effectiveness as being in competition with each other but as constituting the major objectives of any reform policy and or improvement effort at school and or national levels Reading Assessment and Instruction for All Learners Jeanne Shay Schumm, 2017-02-13 Weaving together the latest knowledge and best practices for teaching children to read this indispensable text and professional resource provides a complete guide to differentiated instruction for diverse learners Uniquely integrative the book places the needs of English language learners and students with disabilities front and center instead of treating them as special topics Accessible chapters on each of the core components of literacy clearly demonstrate how to link formal and informal assessment to evidence based instruction Special features include Research Briefs Tech Tips Internet Resources Reflection and Action Questions and dozens of reproducible student activities and assessment tools
